FRENCH STARTS NEW SEARCH FOR THE FARO GANG

Asa P. French, United States District Attorney, took up the faro gang case as soon as he reached his office in the Federal Building to-day. Mr. French, William H. Garland, his assistant in this case, and Fred Schmidt, special agent of the Department of Justice, had a short conference during which they discussed plans for bringing the case before the Grand Jury on Wednesday.

COLEMAN TO BE GRAND JURY WITNESS.

Two of the principal cases to be brought before this body are those of Martin J. Walsh and James Strausneider. Walsh has not been indicted, although there has been a warrant for his arrest issued. Should Strausneider be indicted he will be brought on here from New York, where he is at liberty under bail of $15,000, and it is expected that his trial would be held at once.

George W. Coleman is to be one of the chief witnesses before the Grand Jury. Miss Mamie Hightower will also be called as a witness, probably. Miss Hightower, dressed in a new Summer gown, was at the Federal building to-day, where she saw some of the officials of the government.

Half a dozen Secret Service men were assigned to work in connection with new developments in the case.

Two Sought by U. S. Agents.

Two of the men that the Secret Service officers would like to find so that the agents of the Government can have a talk with them, it was learned to-day, are John J. Cunniff and James J. Erdley. Cunniff testified that John R. Marshall and not "Big Bill" Keliher telegraphed the $200 to Kansas City for Coleman. He said that Keliher gave Marshall the money and that he (Cunniff) went to the Western Union Telegraph office with Marshall when he sent the money.

The last time that Cunniff was seen by the government officials was just after the arrest of Francis J. Wood, for alleged perjury. Cunniff was at the postoffice building at that time.

The officers also want to talk to James J. Erdley, a bartender, who testified at the trial about closing up the State street office of the Marshall Company.

Francis J. Wood appeared at the Federal Court and was arraigned before Commissioner Hayes to-day on the charge of having committed perjury. He pleaded not guilty and waived examination. Lawyer John R. Murphy represents Wood.

Calls Himself a "Chump."

"Have you got your bail ready?" asked Commissioner Hayes.

"No," replied Wood, "I thought the old bail would do."

Wood had been released on Saturday in $2,000 bail after having remained in the Charles Street Jail for two nights. Commissioner Hayes told him that it would be necessary to obtain a bondsman again.

"I will continue the case until to-morrow," said Commissioner Hayes," so as not to make it a hardship on you. Then have your bail here."

"I will" replied Wood.

To an AMERICAN reporter Wood said:

"I have got absolutely nothing out of this thing and I now know that I have been a big chump."

It is believed that Wood has told the government some facts that will be of much use to it in the further prosecution of the case. Wood was a friend of Keliher and talked to him frequently in the corridor of the court house while the trial was in progress.

"Big Bill" Near Collapse.

"Big Bill" Keliher is in a cell in the Charles Street Jail almost in a state of collapse. He is furious at his restraint and yesterday and to-day he sat in his cell dressed only in his underclothing. He suffered intensely from the heat.

But even more than from the heat he suffers because no one will talk to him. He speaks to the guards and gets no reply. He hears people chatting with other prisoners and wonders why no one comes to see him or talk to him. The big prisoner feels that he is deserted, almost, although his lawyers are doing all in their power to raise $50,000 bail for him.

The officials at the jail are not discriminating against their noted prisoner, but they are giving him a wide berth. The only solace "Big Bill" has is that he is allowed to smoke and send out for his meals. But he can't put in all the time eating and smoking and he intimated to one man who went in to see him that he would die if they didn't get him out of there."

Discussing the faro cases Mr. French said to-day:

"Martin J. Walsh is the man I am after now, and I shall not rest until he has been arrested and prosecuted. We have heard from him all over the world. We do not know where he is, but we shall find him."

SHOT BY YOUTH AT WINTHROP

Guy Gove, a young man of Winthrop who has called the attention of the police to himself on several occasions, to-day shot and dangerously wounded Jesse Hays, of No. 297 Shirley street, Winthrop.

Gove is nineteen years of age and lives at No. 12 Forrest avenue, Winthrop. The shooting which took place shortly before noon, caused much excitement in the town.

Hays is forty-five years of age and a negro. It was said that he and Gove quarrelled on Saturday evening and that the shooting took place when the two met to-day.

Hays was hit, it was feared, in a vital spot and he was hurried to the hospital of Dr. Metcalf for treatment. It was said that the man was in a bad way and it could not be told whether or not there was any chance for him to live.

Two Shots Fired.

The shooting took place on Wave Way avenue, near Shirley street. When Gove met Hays the former, pulling a revolver from his pocket, said:

"I'll fix you."

Gove fired two shots and ran away. Hays dropped in his tracks. When the wounded man was picked up it was found that Hayes had been shot in the neck and in the right breast just over the heart.

The young man dashed away with his revolver in his hand. He ran toward Winthrop Highlands. The police were quickly notified and Patrolman James H. Douglass was soon after the fugitive. Douglass caught sight of Gove running down a bluff in the direction of Fort Heath and called out to him to stop.

"Stop, or I'll have to take a shot at you," called out the policeman.

Gove still held his revolver in his hand. But he was pretty well winded and the sight of the blue coat and brass buttons seemed to fill him with fear.

"I'll give up, I'll give up," he cried.

Placed Under Arrest.

Douglass took charge of the young man's revolver and conducted him to the Winthrop police station. He was locked up there on the charge of assault with intent to kill. He will be arraigned in the East Boston Police Court to-morrow.

On May 15 Gove was arrested on the chareg of breaking and entering, but he seemed to be so much under the influence of liquor when he was arraigned in the East Boston court that the charge against him was changed and he was fined $15 for intoxication.

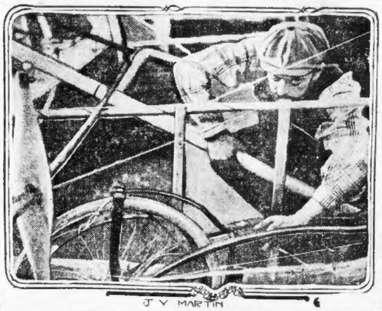
$50,000 IS GAINED BY CORONER'S VERDICT

NEW YORK, June 18.—The coroner's jury in the death of Charles C. Dickinson, ex-president of the Carnegie Trust Company, brought in a verdict this afternoon declaring that Mr. Dickinson died as a result of inhaling poisonous gases. Members of the family declared that the banker was made ill watching a secret attempt to make silver by a transmutation of metals. As a result of the verdict the banker's heirs expect to receive $55,000 life insurance, which they would have lost on a verdict of suicide.

Notice to Holders of Flag Coupons

The demand for flags by BOSTON AMERICAN readers has been so enormous and so far in excess of all expectations that the flag manufacturers are unable to supply us with flags as rapidly as required. We already have in our office all the orders for flags that we can safely guarantee to deliver by July Fourth. On that account we regret that we are compelled to inform our readers that only those orders now in our office can be delivered by the Fourth. All orders received between now and July Fourth will be delivered as soon after that date as possible.

Wrecked Airship and Its Pilot on Soldiers Field



J Y MARTIN

NEW HARVARD BIPLANE MEETS WITH DISASTER

Harvard Biplane I was wrecked in a tryout on Soldiers Field early to-day. The machine made a successful short flight on Saturday and was brought out for a trial at daybreak to-day.

The accident came on a trial spin down the length of Soldiers' Field, in a series of brake tests. J. B. Martin was driving the machine and was making great speed, when the spectators saw it stop suddenly and then go over. They rushed to the assistance of Mr. Martin.

It was found that the forward wheels were crushed, that wires were broken and that there was other damage.

Wrecked on Last Run.

Mr. Martin had shot the biplane up and down the field, driving from his usual seat. The engine worked well, without once causing trouble. The machine had finished three trips.

"I'll give her one more try, and then I'll try to make a flight," said Mr. Martin.

It was on this last run that the machine was wrecked. A brake defect caused the accident.

Mr. Martin appeared on the field at about 4 o'clock. The biplane was taken out of its shelter half an hour later. Three-quarters of an hour was spent in tightening screws, looking after the engine, and the plane adjustments. Mr. Martin was aided by student volunteers.

It was 5:15 before Mr. Martin decided to begin a series of test drives, to discover if the brakes, with which he had been having trouble in previous attempts, would work.

Motor Works Smoothly.

A wave of one hand, and the engine started. The motor never caught once. It went as smoothly as could be desired. The biplane whizzed over the ground on a perfectly even keel. No plane lift was made, as Mr. Martin purposely kept the machine on the ground. After a short distance, covered at a moderate speed, Mr. Martin would suddenly work his brakes, and the aeroplane would come to a dead stop. Everything worked remarkably well, and Mr. Martin expressed himself as thoroughly satisfied.

He had originally planned to make an ascent after three runs down the field and back. It was probably lucky that he changed his mind, as it was on the next try there came the mishap that put a stop to trials for to-day.

"It's too bad," said Mr. Martin. "But we'll get her into good shape soon."

At the request of the operator several students hustled up a truck, on which the Harvard I. was borne back to its shed.

TURNER ARGUES FOR U. S. ON FISHERIES

THE HAGUE, June 20.—The argument for the United States in the Newfoundland fisheries dispute was opened before the International Arbitration Tribunal today by former United States Senator George Turner of Spokane, Washington.

CHURCH JANITOR IS INDICTED AS SLAYER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 20.—The grand jury today returned an indictment against Joseph Wendling, the missing janitor of St. John's Church, charging him with the wilful murder of Alma Kellner.

MEDWAY FIGHTS A $20,000 FIRE THREE HOURS

A three-alarm fire that threatened the heart of West Medway early to-day burned the three-story frame factory building of the Smith Overall Company to the ground, entailing a loss of about $20,000. The entire Medway and West Medway fire departments were called out, and Milford telephoned to for help. The fire throws forty factory employes out of work.

Selectman Michael Small, who is also a fireman, was overcome by the intense heat while fighting the flames. He had to be carried to his home on a stretcher. The Baptist Church in West Medway caught from the flying brands, but the fire was extinguished before it had communicated to the main structure. Dwelling houses all around the factory caught, and the occupants formed impromptu bucket brigades to stamp out the incipient blazes.

That no one was burned inside the building was due to the fact that the fire started about 6:30, half an hour before the employes reported for work. At the time, Manager Almond Smith was the only one in the building. He was preparing a fire under the boilers, to get up steam. It is not known whether the boiler is accountable for the fire or defective electric wiring.

A fire engine started from Milford, but was headed off as the fire was then under control.

Valuable machinery in the factory was wrecked. Four looms owned by Jere Emery, formerly owner of the Pine Tree Mills, were rendered a total loss. The looms had been installed for experimental purposes. The loss is said to be covered by insurance. Jacob Dreyfus & Company of Boston controlled the factory output, and had interest in the company, it is said.

FOUR COUPLES WED AS NUMIDIAN DOCKS

Four couples were married in the cabin of the Allan line steamship Numidian when the steamer docked to-day. Justice of the Peace Morris I. Silton officiated. Three of the girls came from Scotland, the fourth from England. James Omand, a Somerville lumber worker, was married to Annie T. Omand of the same name but no kin to the husband. George C. Crammond, Quincy machinist, married Miss Lindsay J. McPherson. Robert Calder, Hartford moulder, was wedded to Margaret Hill. John A. Hamilton, a Madison (Maine) bookkeeper, became the husband of Miss Alice Daniels, a pretty Yorkshire lassie, a childhood sweetheart.

CRUEL MEASURES BY MADRIZ ARMY

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20.—State Department advices to-day from United States Consul Olivares at Managua said that the Madriz faction is demoralized and is endeavoring to retain its prestige through extreme measures. "Throughout western Nicaragua," he continues, "the prisons are crowded with reputable citizens. In Granada families are being prevented from obtaining food in order to coerce them into paying the forced loans. Armed revolutionary bands are ranging throughout the rural districts and are seriously harassing the outposts of Madriz, whose forces have been materially weakende."

TO-DAY IS CLASS DAY AT NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 20.—Class day exercises of the Academic and Sheffield Scientific School seniors were held to-day, the "Sheff" men on Hillhouse avenue and the academic men in the old college yard. The men listened to the reading of class histories, sang songs and smoked pipes. The alumni advisory board and the Yale corporation also met to-day.

LYMAN SCHOOL CHAIRMAN TESTIFIES

Judge McDonald Defends Methods of School, but Admits He Could Not Always Find Out What Was Going On

The whipping of a boy by a 200-pound man with a garden hose was declared the most humane mode of punishment to-day by Judge James W. McDonald, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Lyman School for Boys at Westboro, when questioned before the Legislative Committee which is investigating the institution.

Judge McDonald made several admissions that went to show that something is radically wrong at the school. He said that he never felt that he could get exact information as to what was going on in the school, no matter how often he went there.

FIFTEEN OUT OF EIGHTEEN BOYS WHIPPED.

He said that out of eighteen boys that he had examined at random fifteen of them had received corporal punishment. Five of them had been slapped and had their hair pulled. He had seen some blue marks on the backs of boys that he supposed had been made by whipping.

Judge McDonald admitted that he believed that after a boy had been whipped three times that that form of punishment lost its value. He advised the hiring of an additional man who had made a deep study of incorrigible boys.

The hearing on the charges of cruelty against the officials of the school was resumed in Room 240 at the State House at 10:45 o'clock this morning. Judge McDonald, connected with the Marlboro District Court, was the first witness to testify before the committee to-day. He testified that he had been trustee since 1905 and that he was one of those in charge of the probation system. In that work he said that he examined applicants for probation, saw that they were properly placed and through agents of the school followed their movements after they were placed.

Try to Return Boys Quickly.

"It is the aim of the trustees to return the boys to the community as soon as possible," said Judge McDonald. "In doing this we try to avoid placing the boy in the same environment which originally caused his going wrong. Our agents are constantly supervising the conditions of the boys who have been placed or released and making reports to the trustees.

"I have never committed a boy to the Lyman school for his first appearance in my corut. I hold that a boy under fifteen, whatever his offence may be, is entitled to another chance and the Lyman school or an institution of that sort is the last resort. No boy should be sent there unless he has got beyond the control of his parents, the police and all influences, that might help him.

Q.—Do you think the present system of indeterminite sentences is better than a determinate period in the school? A.—Yes. No boy is sent from my court to that school until I think he needs a long period of supervision.

Judge Made Investigation.

Q.—Did you ever make an investigation into the method of punishment at the school? A.—Yes. About two years ago I made a special investigation into the conduct of officers in the school following several complaints of ill treatment which the trustees had received from boys. I spent two days at the school, examined each officer separately and without previous warning. I failed to get any evidence of extreme cruelty.

Q.—Don't you think that the officers might have been unwilling to testify frankly through fear of losing their jobs? A.—No. I think that if there were practices of extreme cruelty going on the officers would not withhold such information.

Q.—Is there not a general undercurrent of feeling in the school that if the boys complain of ill-treatment that they will get worse, and that if the officers tell the truth about conditions there they will lose their positions? A.—Not that I know of. If that is the feeling the trustees are at a decided disadvantage. It is pretty hard for them to get at the truth and correct abuses. I may add that I have never received a complaint from any boy about alleged ill-treatment.

At the opening of the hearing, Lawyer P. H. Kelley, for the Parents' Protective Association, presented a petition to the committee in behalf of that body, asking that all of the trustees and the officers of the

FLIGHT FROM BOSTON TO NEW YORK PLANNED

Glenn E. Curtis, who recently made the Albany to New York city flight, has agreed to fly from Boston to New York and return for $20,000. The proposition has already been put up to the Boston Chamber of Commerce. It is the belief that the flight will be made.

The announcement of the proposed round trip aviation feat to New York and back was made to-day. People in Greater Boston are profoundly interested, as are also aviators all over the country. Curtiss is anxious to have a chance to win new laurels for himself. A few days after he made his trip along the Hudson, Charles K. Hamilton flew from New York to Philadelphia and return. Since that time Curtiss has been more desirous than ever to recoup the honors for a distance record.

Secretary James A. McKibben of the Chamber of Commerce said to-day:

"The proposition has been put informally by two gentlemen from New York representing Mr. Curtiss. I told them to bring the matter to the attention of the chamber through the regular channels. Mr. Curtiss desires that the flight be made over the sound, close to the shore."

Since his Albany to New York stunt Curtiss has been practicing daily. It is his ambition to fly from New York to St. Louis, and prior to accomplishing this he would like to sandwich in the Boston flight as a sort of tryout for his aeroplane.

John Candler Cobb, member of the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce, said to-day regarding the Curtiss proposition: "A flight of the sort proposed between Boston and New York calls the attention of the world to the feat itself, and unquestionably to Boston."

Joseph B. Russell, also a member of the Chamber's executive committee, said: "The event would be a most interesting one from the standpoint of sport. Practical things often come out of sporting events of this character. For this reason the flight if made would be important."

You see the AMERICAN everywhere—in the homes, clubs, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

ROOSEVELT IS WEDDED TODAY IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 20.—The boy and girl romance of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander culminates in their marriage at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. Besides being one of the society events of the season because of the fact that the bride belongs to one of the oldest New York families, the occasion marks the first social appearance of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, father of the bridegroom.

Society had been looking forward to the marriage since the announcement of the engagement, and that it would not be disappointed was made apparent by the fact that 15,000 invitations were issued for the church ceremony and the reception following. The beautiful church and the ballroom in the home of C. B. Alexander, the bride's uncle, where the reception was to be held, both passed through the florist's hands last night.

SULTA NOF SULU COMING TO AMERICA

MANILA, June 20.—The erstwhile suitor for the hand of Alice Roosevelt, the picturesque Sultan of Sulu, is on his way to visit the United States. His Majesty is not hunting a bride, however. His object is the more prosaic one of selling royal jewels, a collection of pearls valued at $250,000. The proceeds, he declares, will be devoted to improving the condition of his people. Fourteen prominent Moros comprise his entourage. The party is now in India and will make several stops in Europe on the way.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

$200,000 PLEDGED FOR FIGHT

RENO, Nev., June 20.—A delegation of Goldfield business men hase arrived here to meet Tex Rickard when he arrives from San Francisco. The Goldfield men guarantee gate receipts of $200,000 if the Jeffries-Johnson fight is pulled off in that city.

After three days of intense excitement Reno has settled down and to-day calmly awaited the arrival of Rickard with apparent confidence that he will decide in favor of this city. There is not a store room available here and few hotel rooms, so great has been the demand to engage them outright. Managers of the telegraph companies are already here planning for emergencies.

RICKARD DECIDES UPON NEVADA FOR THE BIG BATTLE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—The Jeffries-Johnson fight will be held in Nevada. That was definitely settled to-day.

The fight will be held in either Reno or Goldfield. The city selected will be announced to-morrow.

Tex Rickard leaves San Francisco to-day for Reno. To-day and to-night will be given up to a consideration of the two Nevada cities, as to their best location as a drawing site for the great battle.

The decision to abandon California was finally reached at 1 a. m. to-day after an elaborate series of conferences which had covered the entire day, Rickard's last word being:

"Our last hope to pull off the fight is gone in California, and I'm off for Nevada. I am not at liberty now to say in what city the fight will be staged, but on Tuesday morning I will have reached a decision and will announce the selection."

The forerunner to this was really announced by the Governor in a formal statement last evening, the keynote of which was:

"The Jeffries-Johnson fight will not take place on California soil under any circumstances. This is final and as emphatic as I can make it."

Rumors that Mayor McCarthy to-day went with a delegation to Sacramento to plead with Governor Gillett for a reversal of his ultimatum, while practically confirmed were not admitted officially either by Gillett or the Mayor.

The Governor insisted that no one had made an effort to change his attitude, and that on the contrary his Sunday was pleasantly filled by the reception of numerous messages commending his course.

Wilson Mizner, manager of Stanley Ketchel, champion middleweight, has come to the conclusion that there is no chance of his man being able to meet Langford in this State, and he is ready to accept the terms for a battle in Nevada.

The consummation of a match between Ketchel and Langford will depend entirely on whether the heavyweight battle is transferred to Reno, in which case the battle would occur on the morning of the Fourth.

THIRTY-FIVE MINE WORKERS ENTOMBED

HALIFAX, N. S., June 20.—Thirty-five miners were entombed to-day by an explosion in the mines of the Maritime Coal & Power Company. The mine caught fire and rescue parties were driven back by gas and flames.

MADRIZ GETS SHARP REPLY TO PROTEST

WASHINGTON, June 20.—President Madriz of Nicaragua has drawn from this Government a sharp reply to the protest he made to the President that the United States prolonged the war in the little republic because this Government refused to allow the bombardment of Bluefields or to allow the Venus to maintain a blockade there.

Consul Olivares at Managua has been furnished with a statement that the Consul has been directed to hand to Madriz. It tersely observes that if any violation of neutrality has occurred it was when the Venus sailed from New Orleans as an expedition of the Madriz faction.

Madriz protested not to the United States alone, but to all the South American and Central American republics.

The statements which he set forth in his telegrams are construed by the State Department as nothing less than an effort to place in a false light the policy which the United States has accepted in dealing with the Nicaraguan affair.

Secretary Knox decided that the Madriz protest required the special notice of this Government, because the allegations made were evidently founded on misunderstanding of the facts and the applicable principles of international law.

The reply says.

"As to the statements made in the telegram of Dr. Madriz to the President, the Government of the United States took only the customary step of prohibiting bombardment or fighting by either faction within the unfortified and ungarrisoned commercial city of Bluefields, thus protecting the preponderating American and other interests just as the British commander had done at Greytown where there are large British interests.

SENATE TO TAKE UP LORIMER CASE

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The resolution providing for an investigation of the alleged bribery charges and corrupt practices of the Illinois Legislature in connection with the election of the Senator Lorimer was reported to the Senate to-day from the committee on contingent fund and adopted.

Senator Borah of Idaho sought to amend the resolution so as to provide that the investigation shall begin at once. The motion was rejected, without a roll call. It is not expected that the committee which is to conduct the inquiry will begin its work until early next Fall.

The general deficiency bill, which is the last of the regular appropriation bills, was reported to the Senate to-day, and will be taken up for consideration to-morrow.

The bill to increase the efficiency of the engineer corps of the army was called up by Senator Warren. This is a measure which is calculated to provide for the assignment of an engineer officer to the reclamation service and thus separate from the service Director Newell whom Secretary Ballinger has been endeavoring to displace ever since he came into office.

TAFT GOING TO TENNESSEE.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—President Taft to-da yaccepted an invitation to visit the Appalachian Exposition at Knoxville, Tenn., the second week in September. From Knoxville he will go to Nashville to attend the State fair.

WIFE SMOKER, SAYS DIVORCE CASE WITNESS

Before her marriage to Maximilian M. Meithke, when she was Miss Florence Anderson, Mrs. Meithke once smoked a cigarette with her feet upon the table and with Samuel A. Walker of Newton, the wealthy vaudeville agent of Tremont row, sitting opposite her, according to testimony of Miss Alice T. Collins at the resumption to-day of Mr. Meithke's suit for divorce.

In his bill of complaint Meithke named Arthur T. Gorman, a wealthy Gloucester fish merchant. He also mentioned Walker as one who frequently called at the house.

Meithke is a photographer. Mrs. Meithke is a young woman of attractive appearance. Miss Collins, who testified to-day, is a photograph finisher living at No. 12 Ophir street, Jamaica Plain.

She testified to Walker and Gorman both calling at Mrs. Meithke's home prior to the marriage with Meithke. Some amusement was caused when Miss Collins said:

"Miss Anderson (Mrs. Meithke) called Mr. Walker 'Daddie.' Miss Anderson told me Mr. Walker had offered her a beautiful home in Newton, and that he would employ her as his private secretary. I said it was strange that a man of Mr. Walker's wealth and age should keep in business. I said I thought he ought to retire. Miss Anderson said he kept the office so he could 'hike it.'"

Judge Richardson—"Spell it."

Miss Collins—"I can't. It is a slang phrase. I don't know what it means."

In answer to further questions by Meithke's counsel, Miss Collins said: "Once I saw Miss Anderson smoking a cigarette with her feet on the edge of the dining room table and with Mr. Walker sitting opposite and smoking a cigar."

SHOOTS AT DOG, HITS POLICEMAN

NEW YORK, June 20.—One policeman was bitten and another shot in a fight with a supposed mad dog at Ninety-second street and Riverside Drive early to-day. Patrolman Adolph Berman threw part of a sandwich he was eating to the cur, and it bit him on the instep. In the fight that followed with the dog a number of other policemen joined, and in firing at the animal Policeman Andrew McLoughlin shot Policeman John Mullin in the left leg. The dog was finally killed.

JUDGE DENIES CRUELTIES AT LYMAN SCHOOL

Lyman School be summoned to testify before the committee at the present hearing. The petition was taken under advisement.

Trustee Suggests Changes.

Q.—Will you make some suggestions for improvement at the school? A.—Yes, sir. All things depend on the personality of the superintendent and the officers. I think we should have more land and more buildings so that we can limit the number of boys to the various cottages, having fewer boys to each sub-master. It is worth it for Massachusetts will do a grand thing when they send more than sixty per cent. of these boys out into the world to take their places as good citizens. Fifty per cent. of the boys now sent out are all right. Every boy, I believe, needs individual study but the question is, can one master give thirty-five or forty boys individual attention?

I think another building for incorrigable boys, detached from the other buildings, would be an excellent thing. By the segregation of these boys from the others corporal punishment and detention rooms could be eliminated. I do not think that boys who have reached the age of seventeen or eighteen should be placed in the Lyman School. No boy should be placed in the detention room alone. He should have some one to watch him. But the one question which you are facing, and whose solution has always been unsatisfactory to me in my service as trustee, is that I never felt I had exact information about the school or any department. No matter how often I went over there, I always felt that. I do not wish to impute anything against Mr. Coffeen, who I believe is a humane man.

The success of that institution now I believe cannot be fully reached until we have another officer there. This man would act as secretary or clerk of the Board of Trustees and would be our direct agent in the work. He would be a man who has made a study of the problem of handling incorrigible boys. He would have to be paid a substantial salary. His work would be entirely that of investigation and he would be responsible to and make suggestions for the advantage of the trustees.

Knew They Broke Rules.

Q.—In your investigation did you find that the officers knew the rules? A.—Yes, and they knew that they had broken them.

Q.—What did you find in that investigation. A.—I called four bops from each of the cottages, selecting the names indiscriminately. Fifteen out of the eighteen boys thus examined had received corporal punishment. Five had been slapped by masters and by female teachers. Five had their hair pulled bp teachers. One complained of thin soup. Two or three complained of the roughness of monitors, but in no case did I find anv evidence of extreme crueltp.

Q.—Did pou go through the records of punishment? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did pou call in those punished just before your investigation? A.—No.

Q.—Did you thing that those boys would show any evidences of their punishment? A.—No. I had seen a number of times when at the school many of the boys in swimming. Only in one or two cases di I see any marks on their bodies which would lead me to think they had been punished. There was a faint tinge of green in spots on some of the boys as if they had been black and blue.

Q.—Do you believe the whipping of a boy with a rubber hose by some man weighing 200 pounds, using the lash for forty strokes, has the best influence in reforming him? A.—Not as many strokes as that, perhaps, but in the end I believe it is the most humane mode of punishment.

Doesn't Favor Whipping.

Q.—If corporal punishment is a good method how is it thatt he same boys are being punished week after week? A.—I favor doing away with corporal punishment if strict discipline can be maintained as the statute provides, but corporal punishment I admit had not always the desired effect. After three such punishments my personal opinion is that whipping has lost its value.

Q.—Don't you think that if a boy cannot get along well under one monitor that he should be given in charge of another? A.—I think it is worthy of trial.

Q.—Have you ever tried to effect such a plan? A.—No. There are so many boys that it is difficult for the few teachers employed to handle more than they now have. Still, I agree that it would be a good thing if teachers of different temperaments could be given the boys they best understand.

LAY ACROSS TRACKS; REFUSED TO BUDGE

An unknown man stretched himself across the surface car tracks at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Waterhouse street, Cambridge, just before noon to-day. He refused to get up and held up traffic for sometime. Finally several passengers threw him to one side. Later the same man appeared before Hastings Hall, one of the Harvard College dormitories, and began a speech. Some students lead him from the grounds and finally turned him over to Patrolman O'Connell. He was arrested for drunkeness but refused to give his name.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

King George Defended by Dean of Norwich.

LONDON—The Dean of Norwich made a remarkable address in a church near Norwich, in which he referred to King George as "a man to my personal knowledge of intense self-sacrifice and of high character." He then mentioned "two accusations brought, as I think, by that part of society which is not society at all." He went on: "Firstly, that the King is sometimes accused of insobriety. That is a libel. So far as his close friends have noticed him he has never been intemperate throughout his life. He is a man who, even from the point of view of health, has to be abstemious. The other accusation, that prior to his marriage to the present Queen he had a secret marriage, with children by it, is absolutely, root and branch, an untruth. The King is a man, who, with a wife of like disposition as himself, has been wont during his leisure to sit in his garden with his young children around him just the same as any of us might."

Gatti-Casazza Jubilant.

PARIS—M. Gatti-Casazza said at the charity concert given by the Metropolitan Opera Company at the Grand Opera for the benefit of the families of the victims who lost their lives by the sinking of the submarine Pluviose and for other charities: "This is the climax of what every one in Paris tells me has been the most brilliant operatic season in the history of the present generation. My purpose in organizing this gala event in the name of the Metropolitan Board of Directors was to have our company do something. Praise cannot be too high for the distinction lent the season by Toscanini's brilliant work."

Gabriele d'Annunzio Angry.

PARIS—Gabriele d'Annunzio, the Italian dramatist, is very angry with the priests of Notre Dame. A few days ago he asked that in the interest of a new book he is about to write he wished to be allowed to remain alone in the church for half an hour while the great organ was being played exclusively for himself. The permission was granted. When the poet turned up on the appointed afternoon, he was accompanied by a large party of friends, including many fashionably dressed women. The priests told D'Annunzio that nobody but himself could be allowed in the church. The poet was very much taken aback.

Cunard to Quit Queenstown.

QUEENSTOWN—There are rumors here, apparently well founded, that the Cunard Steamship Company will soon abandon this port in favor of Fishguard. Consternation reigns in Ireland at the threatened abandonment of Queenstown. An Irish deputation, including the Lord Mayors of Dublin and Belfast, is about to appeal for the retention of this port.

STEAMERS CRASH; 9 ARE DROWNED

HOLYHEAD, June 20.—Rammed by the steamer Yews and cut almost in halves the steamer LaRochelle sank within five minutes of the collision early to-day, carrying the captain and eigth men to death in the English channel.

Ten survivors were picked up by the boats of the Yews.

The collision came in a dense fog and neither vessel had any warning.

The Yews, steaming at half speed through the almost impenetrable fog, struck the La Rochelle square amidships, her steel bow shearing almost entirely through the other craft. None but the early watches of both craft were on deck, and several of the victims were penned in their quarters below and unable to make the deck before the La Rochelle settled and went down.

CHINESE PROFESSORS SIGN ROUND ROBIN

PEKIN, June 20.—All the foreign professors in the Imperial University, numbering nineteen Europeans, three Americans and four Japanese, have signed a round robin declaring that they will refuse to continue their courses unless measures are at once taken to remedy the unsanitary conditions of the dormitories and class rooms. This has been sent to the Chinese administration. As a result of the prevailing conditions, there have been outbreaks of typhoid fever, diphtheria and small-pox. Up to the present the Chinese authorities have paid no attention to the protests which have several times been made by the foreign professors.

NOT GUILTY IS PLEA TO MURDER CHARGE

Carmelo Ferro, of Framingham, was arraigned to-day before Judge Stevens in the Superior Criminal court at East Cambridge, charged with murder in the first degree and on an additional indictment charging him with assault with an intent to murder. Ferro is charged with killing Antonio Delilia on Sunday night, April 17 at Framingham and with the assault with a dangerous weapon on Raphael Surro. Ferro pleaded not guilty to both indictments. He was held without bail.

CAMBRIDGE FIREMEN APPEAL FROM MAYOR

Three lieutenants of the Cambridge Fire Department, who failed of promotion when several vacancies were filled for captains by Mayor Brooks some time ago, to-day filed an appeal with the Civil Service Commission. The three men are Williams Cairns, John Benson and John Gardis. They declare that several positions of captains were filled by privates, contrary to Civil Service regulations.

BORAH SPEAKS FOR RESOURCES OF THE WEST

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20.—Speaking as the champion of the West, Senator Borah in addressing the Senate during the consideration of conservation legislation today declared:

"What we want is a sane, practical, conservative policy under reasonable regulation, permitting the development of our natural resources in accordance with the natural laws of progress and industrial growth. It would be a magnificent scheme, indeed," he exclaimed, "to compel the whole great West to hold its vast resources in idleness, deprive its people of their enjoyment and use and compel them to pay tribute to those resources of which you have taken possession here in the East and developed at your own free will."

He declared it a violation of every principle of the constitution to withhold power sites from the use of the western States, asking: "If Illinois or Massachusetts receives thousands or even millions of dollars as a revenue for their water power and Idaho receives nothing, but on the other hand pays millions into the federal treasury, is there equality among the States?"

"Our power sites do not in any sense of the term belong to the people of New England or New York," he continued. "They are to be utilized by those who make themselves citizens of the State and join with others in trying to build up a commonwealth."

Arguing that it had never been the theory of the government that these resources should be used as a revenue producing proposition, but that they were for the benefit of all the people, he said: "But the people must come within the State in order to avail themselves of the use and benefit."

WARM WAVE HITS BOSTON

A warm wave that is sweeping the entire country struck Boston to-day, bringing enough heat to make the mercury rise rapidly. The thermometer stood 79 degrees at 11 o'clock. Good weather is promised Boston for several days, with a possibility that the warm spell will last into July. However, in view of the uncertain brand the weather man has been handing out to Boston and vicinity, people will be thankful to get three days, if that much, of seasonable weather.

There is no telling how high the thermometer may rise, says the Washington dopester. In the Middle States the thermometer is expected to go over 90 degrees, and in South Dakota as high as 100.

Thousands took advantage of the balmy air to-day for trips to the beaches and parks on family outings.

THOUSANDS OF DEER ON SMALL ISLAND

LANSING, Mich., June 20.—Michigan people perhaps are not aware that there is one section of the State where the deer have become so plentiful that hunters are being invited to come and "bag" them, but such is the case, according to information received by Game Warden Pierce.

Grand Island, in Lake Superior, just north of Alger County, about twelve miles long by four wide, and owned for the most part by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company, has become so thickly inhabited by deer that it has been deemed advisable to let hunters in.

Outside of Yellowstone Park, this island is without doubt the largest game preserve in the United States, and for years the owners have been stocking the island with moose, elk, deer and other animals, until now the deer have become so plentiful that they are too numerous for he feeding ground. It is estimated that there are now close to 2,000 deer on the island.

COWBOYS PASSING FROM THE RANGES

GRANGEVILLE, Idaho, June 20.—Within the next two months a change will be made in Idaho County that will materially effect one of the greatest industries of the country. Ever since the country was settled and the Nez Perce Indians subdued, the chief industry of the country has been cattle raising. Here it was that the pincturesque cow-puncher, so dear to modern fiction writers and Eastern magazines, flourished the longest before giving place to the advance of civilization, law and order.

It is only a few years since the celebrating cow-puncher raced his pony through the streets of White Bird, Idaho, and, keeping time to the beat of the horse's feet, fired his pistol at random.

WHITE CREPE TELLS END OF QUADRUPLETS

The four little souls that were brought into the life of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Anderson of No. 12 Monument square, Charlestown, remained only a few hours, and then they took their flight to that mysterious bourne from which they came. To-day white crepe flutters from the door of their home.

The quadruplets were born shortly before noon yesterday in the Homoeopathic Hospital, East Concord street, Boston. The hospital doctors and the nurses were greatly surprised when the stork brought such a bevy of babies, but they cheered up the mother, told her that she would get a message of congratulation from Roosevelt and tried to save the little lives.

But the babies were very weak and held on to life by a slender thread. One after the other the thread snapped and by 5 o'clock yesterday evening the four babes were as cold and lifeless as a cluster of plucked lilies of the valley.

At the hospital it was said to-day that the mother is getting along as well as could have been expected. The father is a ship fitter at the navy yard. His wife was Grace McLean, a Canadian, and is thirty-four years old. They were married at Lowell sixteen years ago, and have resided in Charlestown eleven years. They have had eight other children, four of whom are living.

MISSOURI WAR ON BEEF TRUST

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 20.—Quo warranto proceedings to oust the Beef Trust from Missouri were filed with the State Supreme Court by Attorney-General Major to-day.

Attorney General Major to-day made public the following statement in reference to the suit against the Beef Trust:

"As the result of the examination conducted before Judge Dillon in reference to the packers, I have filed two suits against them in the Supreme Court of the State, one action against Swift, Armour and Morris, and the other against the Hammond Packing Company and the St. Louis Dressed Beef & Provision Company. The two latter corporations are subsidiary corporations owned and controlled absolutely in every matter and detail, both in the purchase of livestock and in the sale of the dressed and finished products by the National Packing Company of New Jersey.

"I have not instituted suit against the Cudahy Packing Company and against Schwarzchild & Sulzberger, by reason of the fact that the examination which I conducted was laid along certain lines and naturally led into a field of inquiry which did not disclose at the time whether or not they were guilty of any violation of the laws of this State in reference to pools, trusts and conspiracies. Should it develop during the progress of the trial of the cases pending that these companies are in a conspiracy arrangement, agreement or pool, then in such event suit would be instituted against them."

POLES SETTLE MONTANA COLONY

BUTTE, June 20.—Driven from their native land by the oppressive conditions under the government of imperial monarchies, 3,000 Polish families are planning to settle in Montana. The greater portion of them will establish a colony in the vicinity of Glendive, in the Yellowstone Valley, although some may take land in the Judith Basin district.

I. N. Hill of Glendive has just closed negotiations with the representatives of the coming colonists and announces that the families will arrive and occupy the land during the coming twelve months. Rev. Theodore Suck of Russian Poland and Stanley Mankowski of Seattle, Wash., and Posen, Germany, represented the colonists.

100 DEAD AND 2,000 HOMELESS BY FIRE

ST. PETERSBURG, June 20.—Ten persons are dead, fifty missing and fully 2,000 others homeless as the result of a conflagration which swept over Mohilev to-day, destroying more than 600 buildings.

Business structures, residences and tenements were levelled by the flames, which defied all efforts to check them until they had burned a great path through the heart of the town.

Very Beneficial for
OBESITY
STOMACH TROUBLE
TIRED FEELING

Keep One Always Feeling Well

Bulgarians owe their long and healthful lives to the use of buttermilk made with a special milk ferment, which is now commercially prepared under the name of "LACTABS."

American people are waking up to the wonderful health-giving properties of buttermilk, and now that Lactabs can be bought here the demand is becoming enormous.

Lactabs should not be considered as a medicine. They are, however, a wonderful means of assisting nature. Stomach distress and tired feeling will soon be forgotten with their use. They will be found very beneficial for Obesity. They aid digestion. Lactabs are palatable, tasting somewhat like a nice milk biscuit.

DOCTORS FIGHT MILK DEPOT'S SHORT HOURS

Carney Hospital physicians showed considerable concern to-day when they learned that a modified milk station for the babies of the district, situated on the second floor of the court house at Dorchester and West Fourth streets, opened to-day at 7:30 o'clock, closed its doors again at 9:30 a. m., and that this program was to be adhered to throughout the Summer.

The location is directly across from the hospital, and the major portion of the requests for milk come through physicians' prescriptions from that institution. The physicians agree that the milk station opens too early and closes too soon. One said: "We must have these hours changed. Mothers and their children do not reach here, many of them, until after the station has gone out of business for the day."

There were few mothers and babies at the station to-day, and but little milk was given out. It is believed, however, that just as soon as it becomes generally known that such milk may be obtained there at cost, and that a graduate nurse is in attendance to teach the proper care and nourishment of the infants, a great patronage will follow. The milk will be given out only on doctors' prescriptions.

WOMAN'S AUTO HITS MEDFORD STUDENT

Roy E. Carpenter, twenty-two, a student in the New Hampshire State college at Durham, the son of Charles L. Carpenter of No. 12 Wright street, South Medford, met with a serious automobile accident on Maine street, Stoneham. The young man was walking with a young woman, who shouted a warning and jumped to one side. Carpenter jumped directly in front of an automobile, which knocked him down. The car, which is owned by Mrs. Harry Adams of No. 31 Highland street, Haverhill, was stopped and Carpenter was taken into it and driven to the New England sanitarium. He is suffering from internal injuries.

THRONGS HUNT BOY POLICE HAD FOUND

Members of the Quincy fire department and several hundred people searched for a lost child, who all the time was sleeping peacefully in one of the little white cots at the Chardon Street Home in Boston. Police Chief Burrell "found" the boy by telephone.

The boy was Loretto Tagnano, an eight-year-old son of Antonio Tagnano, of No. 86 Copeland street. It developed that he had wandered to Dorchester and had been picked up by the police of that district and sent to the home.

BERLIN, June 20.—Despite the official denial that any operation had been performed on Emperor William, it became known to-day that Professor Bier, the specialist called in by Doctors D'Ilberg and Neider, lanced several abscesses on the Kaiser's leg yesterday. The patient showed no fever to-day, but his condition is causing some alarm. It is possible that he will be ordered to take a long rest and recuperate at some medicinal springs resort.

RUMOR DEL VAL MAY RESIGN

ROME, June 20.—Rumors are current here that Merry del Val, the Cardinal Secretary of State, will resign his position and be succeeded by a Cardinal who will be able to deal more diplomatically with the situation that to-day confronts the Vatican.

It is known that Pope Pius X. is deeply grieved over the storm raised in Germany by the Borromeo encyclical, and the threat that Spain will break off all negotiations on the Concordat revision if the Vatican protests against the royal recognition of other denominations.

ROOSEVELT, JR., MAKES SECRET OF HONEYMOON

last night from Oyster Bay, where they had spent Sunday with the Roosevelts, to supervise the final details of the ceremony.

Word was received last night that President and Mrs. Taft, who had been expected, would be unable to come on from Washington.

Mrs. Roosevelt, with Kermit, who was to be his brother's best man, and the other members of their family, came in from Oyster Bay this forenoon. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth were with them.

Miss Alexander had selected as her attendants Mrs. Snowden A. Fahnestock, matron of honor; the Misses Harriet and Janetta Alexander, cousins of the bride; Miss Jean Delano and Miss Jessie M. Drake of Paris as bridemaids.

The ushers chosen were George E. Roosevelt and Monroe D. Robinson, cousins of the groom; Francis Roche, Hamilton Fish, Jr., Fulton Cutting, John W. Cutler, Grafton Chapman, Eliot Cutler of New York and E. Morgan Gilbert of Utica, N. Y.

The main aisle of the church had been decorated entirely in white, with clusters of roses and lilies at each pew. This scheme extended to the altar, the steps of which were carpeted with lilies of the valley and bride roses.

The prieu dieu of white satin was festooned with bride roses, with an arch of white flowers above.

Dr. Sanders Performs Ceremony.

An orchestra of fifty pieces, directed by Nahan Franko, plays at the ceremony, while the guests are being seated. As the bride enters the orchestra and organ plays the wedding march from "Lohengrin." Miss Alexander enters on the arm of her mother, Mrs. Henry A. Alexander. The great uncle of the bride, the Rev. Dr. Henry M. Sanders, performs the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Gordon Russell of Cranberry, N. J.

The wedding gown is of white satin with point lace and orange blossoms, cut empire shape. The bride's attendants wear costumes, whose prevailing shades are dull pink and pale blue of pastel shades. Following the reception, the couple go on a honeymoon, but they did not announce where. They plan to arrive about July 1 at San Francisco, where the groom will take a position with the carpet manufacturing concern in whose Connecticut factory he worked.

When Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was asked where he and his bride intended traveling, he exclaimed: "Oh, that's a secret. Why, even Pop doesn't know."

The statement that "Even Pop didn't know" put an effectual damper on the inquisitiveness of the newspaper reporters.

Honeymoon of Three Weeks.

Miss Alexander spent this morning at the home of her mother. Theodore, Jr., remained at the residence of the Douglas Robinsons', No. 422 Madison avenue. Neither Miss Alexander nor her mother had anything to tell about the details of the wedding. All of that was attended to by Theodore, Jr., who even gave out the description of the gowns to be worn by the bride and her attendants.

That is, he gave out as much as he knew about satins, veils, etc., and then had to appeal to his fiancee to help him with the rest.

Theodore, Jr., is a former end on the Harvard team, a good boxer and sturdy all-around athlete. A reporter who went to see him about the wedding used to be pretty good at football himself, and young Roosevelt talked with animation about the game. Indeed, it was hard to nail him down to the wedding plans.

"What is the object of keeping the destination of your wedding journey a secret?" he was asked. "Afraid of jokes?"

"I'm afraid to trust some of 'em," said he, referring to his athletic attendants. "Our honeymoon will last three weeks and then we will go to San Francisco, where I shall try to sell some carpet bags."

Presents to Be Kept Secret.

Here he smiled and added: "But seriously, I am going into the carpet business there."

"Have you received many presents?"

"That's another secret," he said. "The presents will not be shown."

Then he handed the reporter a list of the costumes to be worn at the wedding by the women folk and said: "Here—you know as much about this as I do. You're welcome to it."

LABOR TICKET OVER STATE, C. L. U. PLAN

Independent political action by the Boston Central Labor Union at the coming State election is assured under a sweeping resolution adopted at its Wells Memorial Hall meeting.

Organized labor, it is stated, not content with the Gompers policy of "electing your friends and defeating your enemies," in a large number of local districts will nominate straight trade union tickets.

Michael A. Murphy, President of the C. L. U., with John C. McDonald, agent of the Elevator Constructors, and William Kobs of the Brewery Workers' Union were elected to represent the central organization on this committee.

OPERA TEAMS WILL CLASH ON THE DIAMOND

A tax on deadheads was imposed at the Boston Opera House during the last week of the Aborn season, and the stern-visaged young man in the box office milched everybody who presented a pass to the tune of ten cents for each check required by the pass. He didn't ask permission. He just stuck his paw out and said:

"Twenty cents on these. It's for the baseball team!"

That's one of the reasons why the Boston Opera House baseball team will be completely equipped with uniforms, bats, gloves and balls when it meets the team of the Metropolitan Opera House at the National League grounds to-morrow afternoon.

The Boston team is composed of doorkeepers, stage hands, ushers and other employes of the house who can play ball. No singers are on the team because most of them have gone back to Europe, and an usher can put it all over an opera singer when it comes to cracking out a base hit.

The house employes of the Metropolitan Opera have conquered the New York theatrical world in baseball, and they sent a challenge to Boston some weeks ago.

The Boston crowd has persuaded Mayor Fitzgerald to attend the game. Fitz was a regular attendant during the opera season, and he is strong for the home team. Street Commissioner Jim Gallivan will umpire the game, which looks bad for the Metropolitans if Jim has any local pride. These are the teams:

Bostons—A. Cahill, l.f.; F. Allard, c.f.; H. Magnusson, 2b.; J. Fallon, c.; J. Shaw (captain), s.s.; W. R. Hall, r. f.; P. Sibilia, 1b.; Park Collins, p.; Harold Smith, 3b., and J. Woodhead, manager.

Metropolitans—A. Slechter, 1b.; W. Delaney, 3b.; B. McAvoy, 2b.; E. Lewis (captain), s.s.; West, l.f.; H. Brown, c.f.; A. Gerner, r.f.; F. Ring, p.; C. Tripp, c.; substitutes, G Henry, l. f., and E. Fennell.

CHARLTON ON LINER VERONA

COMO, Italy, June 20.—The police today declared that there is no evidence against Canstantino Ispolatoff, the Russian, arrested in connection with the mysterious murder of Mrs. Mary Scott Castle Charlton, and he probably will be released at once.

Meanwhile the Italian authorities are concentrating their efforts in a world search for Porter Charlton, the missing husband. They believe that he sailed on the Italian liner Verona, which is due to make its first stop in America on July 23, and the police of New York and Philadelphia, where the ship touches have been warned to be on the lookout for him. Investigation made at both Naples and Genoa lead the police to believe that Charlton left on the Verona.

CALLS NEW HAVEN DISCREDITED ROAD

The New Haven railroad stands stamped as a discredited institution with which more and more honest men will fear to be openly associated.

Direct and immediate control by the people of their own interests through the initiative and referendum, the popular election of United States senators have been faced, though defeated, but here the widespread and rising tide of righteous insurgency predicts infallibly the beginning of the end.—Rev. A. A. Berle, on work of the last Legislature.

ANDREW CARNEGIE (PHONY) IN BOSTON

Andrew Carnegie arrived in Boston today from Glasgow aboard the Allen Line steamer Numidian. His name among those of the passenger list of the boat caused a panic among the reporters assembled to meet the boat at the wharf. Prolonged search finally revealed a young Scottish immigrant among the steerage passengers. The young Scot had a sense of humor and he enjoyed keenly the discomfiture of the reporters when he admitted that his name was Andrew Carnegie. "I'm just as good as the other man and I'll be giving away libraries when I'm his age, if I have half a chance," declared he to the reporters. The Numidian was ten days in making the trip from Glasgow. From the time of her sailing those on board did not see the sun until to-day.

PRESIDENT TAFT AT YALE TO-MORROW

WASHINGTON, June 20.—President Taft will leave here to-morrow evening for New Haven, for the Yale graduation exercises, his son Robert being a member of the graduating class.

MRS. EVA DEVINE DEAD.

Mrs. Eva S. Devine, 40 years old, wife of Clerk John M. Devine of the Dorchester police station, died at her home, No. 12 Church street, Dorchester, early today from a complication of diseases. She was born in Dunstable, Mass. She is survived by her husband, John M. Devine, and three sisters, Mrs. Hattie L. Everett, Mrs. L. S. Robbins and Mrs. Frank Toll. Funeral services will be held in St. Peter's church, Dorchester, Wednesday morning and burial will be in New Calvary Cemetery, Forest Hills.

DAUGHTER OF PRESIDENT WHO WILL AID MOTHER

© BY G V BUCK

MISS HELEN TAFT

HELEN TAFT AS HOSTESS

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The appearance of Miss Helen Taft, the nineteen-year-old daughter of the President, in the role of hostess at the White House at the dinner given to the Prince and Princess Fushimi, the Japanese royal visitors, may be often repeated during her father's incumbency, according to those well informed of official and social life in the capital.

It is not intended that Miss Taft shall abandon her course at Bryn Mawr, but she is said to have realized that her mother must not be taxed with all the heavy duties of entertainment at the White House, and to have conceived a plan by which she may be her mother's valuable aide and at the same time complete her colege course.

MEDICAL EXAMINER DIES AT HINGHAM

HINGHAM, June 20.—Dr. J. Winthrop Spooner, sixty-four, for twenty-four years medical examiner of Plymouth County and for thirty-eight years a practicing physician in this town, died at his home on Main street. The cause of death was a paralytic shock.

More AMERICANS are read in the homes in Boston than any other paper.

AUNT DELIA ON HOMECOMING ROOSEVELT

MILLBURY, June 20.—"What do I think of Mr. Roosevelt's homecoming," repeated Miss Delia C. Torrey, President Taft's Aunt Delia. "Well, I haven't thought much about it, although I know Will will be glad to see Theodore Roosevelt again and to know that he is safe and sound after his wonderful trip.

"I thought Mr. Roosevelt's speech at Oxford was very fine, indeed, and I was proud that the United States had such a capable representative abroad. I don't care to say what I thought of the Guildhall speech, for I am not sure my opinion is worth while.

"Politics? Why, I don't believe I know anything of the subject. I have said before that most of the criticism of Will has been due to the fact that he has really tried to work out a tariff policy. Now, I think nobody can effect a tariff that will suit everyone. People on one side or the other will have some fault to find.

"Look at the way President Cleveland failed to please the country. Then President McKinley was killed before he had time to take hold of the subject. Theodore Roosevelt avoided it, and that had a great deal to do with his popularity. But Will has tried to give the country a tariff, and he has to stand, of course, a great deal of criticism.

"Do I intend to give Will advise when I see him? I most certainly do, and the main part of my advice will be to tell him not to work too hard.

"Now," admonished Aunt Delia, shaking a forefinger, "don't you dare to ask me what I think of Will's political friends. Of course, I admire Theodore Roosevelt, and I hope to see him this Summer. I'm advising Will to take a rest, but I wouldn't dare to say that to Roosevelt. I know he wouldn't follow it if I did."

Miss Torrey repudiated the recipe for apple pies which is credited to her and has gone all over the country.

"It puts me in a false light," she said, "when folks think I have been making imperfect pies for the President of the United States."

POLICE NINE GETS READY FOR FIREMEN

In preparation for their baseball game with the firemen, Boston policemen, who play ball, will participate in practice at the Randolph street playgrounds to-morrow morning, so that Lieutenant "Mike" Crowley, manager of the team, may make his final selections.

The "regulars" and the positions they fill are as follows, Foley, Station 5, catcher; O'Neil, Station 3, pitcher; Alexander, Station 3, shortstop; Donovan, Station 4, first base; Smith, Station 9, second base, and Mahoney, Station 9, fielder. Smith and Mahoney, the two Station 9 men, are both ex-leaguers. Ring and Mullen are the most promising candidates for third. The remaining fielders' positions will be filled from the lareg number of recruits who assemble.

STORROW COMMERCE CHAMBER DIRECTOR

James J. Storrow has been unanimously elected a director of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Storrow was formerly president of the body, being the first head of the chamber after it merged with the Boston Merchants Association. He resigned from the presidency at the time he becaem a candidate for Mayor. His election is to fill the vacancy caused by hte resignation of Laurence Minot. Mr. Minot withdrew because of the death of his brother.

Why You Should Drink

Hires

Because it is pure, wholesome and clean. Every ingredient is chosen with the sole aim of deserving your confidence.

Because its inventor, a practicing and practical chemist, chose for his formula the best in Nature—believing success deserving only when founded on giving equal value to those whose patronage has made his labors productive.

Because the formula—created in those good old days before chemistry had invented the artificial and the substitute—has never changed a single iota. Hires, the same yesterday, to-day and forevermore.

Because Hires has honestly proven its pre-eminent right to quench your thirst, refresh and do you good, having conferred a like service upon millions of thirsts before yours. Hires aids digestion and relieves indigestion. But it contains no trace of drugs or irritants, such as soap bark, etc.

But don't ask for rootbeer—ask for "Hires" and thus be sure to get the only genuine *root*beer.

HEARST'S DOCTRINE IS RAILROAD BILL BASIS, SAY G. O. P. LEADERS

WASHINGTON, June 20.—"I believe in giving credit where credit is due," said Senator Stephen B. Elkins to-day. "The new Railroad bill, which the President signed Saturday night contains a number of the ideas of William R. Hearst, which were embodied in the bill which Mr. Hearst presented in 1904. Hearst, from the beginning, was for the Commerce Court idea. He originated, put into shape and brought before the country additional ideas in the bill which has now become a law."

This tribute is from the man who fathered the new railroad law in the Senate, and to whose diplomacy was due the ultimate success of the bill in that chamber.

Champ Clark, Democratic leader of the House, said: "All that is good in the railroad bill is Democratic doctrine. Much of it was suggested years ago by William R. Hearst while a Democratic Congressman from New York. I voted for the bill on final passage because of the good features put in it by Democratic suggestion. I am opposed to the commerce court; but it, like other features of the bill that I admit to be good, was suggesed by Mr. Hearst. The Republicans have adopted some more Democratic suggestions."

Excellent Campaign Document.

With the President's signature promptly appended to the railroad bill, the Republican leaders are congratulating themselves on the advanced step that has been taken in the solution of the railroad problem. That this bill will make an excellent campaign document for them is the general view. Most of the Republican leaders, however, are neither so frank, nor so honest, nor so gracious as Senator Elkins in admitting that many of the best features of the new law were inspired by Mr. Hearst when a member of the National House of Representatives.

With a congressional campaign coming on, they desire the credit to rest exclusively with the Republicans, though privately they admit that the idea of a Commerce Court, particularly, was taken bodily from the bill which Mr. Hearst introduced on March 11, 1904.

Senator Elkins said to-night:

"Of course this bill takes some of the ideas of Mr. Hearst. The Elkins bill did the same. So did the Hepburn bill. Hearst always had the court idea. I remember discussing it with him. I wanted nine judges, one from each circuit, while his bill proposed only three. Another one of his ideas was that of the injunction, and he also proposed the control of rates by the Interstate Commerce Commission. I remember I took his bill with me and had it before me when I drew up the Elkins bill, and I also remember that some of his ideas were embodied in the Hepburn bill. I believe in being fair in these matters."

Taft Gave Credit, Too.

The point to be observed is that in 1904, as now, the Republicans were not disposed frankly to adopt a plan proposed by a Congressman not a member of their party. It remained for President Taft, in his Des Moines speech after the insistent demand for the ideas of Mr. Hearst had become so strong that it could no longer be resisted, to propose that they be taken up and enacted into a law.

To the enactment of such a law he pledged his administration—made the bill part of his legislative program; and, in outlining his plan in the Des Moines spech, he gave credit to Mr. Hearst for first suggesting the Commerce Court, which became the keystone of the Railroad bill that he signed on Saturday night.

Now Senator Elkins, chairman of the Senate Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, which put the bill into shape, bestows the credit on Mr. Hearst that is his due, and Champ Clark, the Democratic leader of the House, scoffing at the measure, frankly concedes that whatever merit it has comes from the long-ago suggestions of Mr. Hearst.

The President has been in receipt today of scores of meseages congratulating him on his signature of the bill.

BOSTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HAS INDORSED BILL

The Boston Chamber of Commerce, through the Chamber of Commerce News, to-day in commenting on the new railroad bill just passed, the main features of which were taken from a bill introduced by William R. Hearst when in Congress in 1904, calls upon the railroads, the shippers and the Interstate Commerce Commission to pull together so that the greatest possible good may be obtained from the new regulations. The News says:

"The most important change in the law is the power which it gives to the Interstate Commerce Commission to prevent advances in rates on the part of the railway companies until they have been approved by the commission, that body being given a total of eleven months in which to consider each case.

Railroads Shorn of Powers.

"Up to the passage of this law the railway companies themselves were the sole judges of the propriety of any tariff which they might issue as long as that tariff complied with the statutes. Under the new law the Interstate Commerce Commission may, of its own motion, investigate and control and supervision over the issuance control and supervision over the issuance of all changes in rates. The rate making power is thus, to a large extent, turned over to the commission. In fact, they have supreme jurisdiction over rate making, and the amount of control which they will exercise will depend largely upon the time and opportunity which they have to devote to the work of supervising rates. It is very clear from this, therefore, that the great danger to be avoided in this change is the inflexibility that may arise from several sources, and it would seem to be the part of patriotism as well as of good business sense for all the different elements to co-operate as far as possible in preventing our rate fabric from becoming inflexible as it is in foreign countries.

"The railways can do their part towards preventing this undesirable result, by encouraging conferences with shippers, at which changes in rates may be discussed, and by agreeing with shippers upon the desirability of changes asked for by them when a good case is made. Shippers, in their turn, can contribute by abstention from protest against every advance in rates and by likewise encouraging conferences with the railroads and admitting the justice of their demands for an advance in rates where the carriers, on their side, make out a good case. The commission can likewise do its part by encouraging those conferences and by granting the changes desired where a majority of shippers and railroad companies have agreed upon them, and no strong reason or public policy appears against the proposed changes.

More Work for Commission.

"In addition to the necessity of having these three parties to the transactions cooperate, it will undoubtedly be necessary to increase the force of the Interstate Commerce Commission materially, for otherwise, in spite of the best of intentions, rates will become unchangeable, because of the impossibility of the commission's finding time to hear all the applications made to them. There is probably no doubt that the commission is heartily in favor of having frequent conferences between shippers and railway representatives, and that it will rejoice at having these two parties come to them with a certain number of matters covered by recommendations and the points of difference clearly defined and separated.

"If this disposition is shown by all, the new plan of making rates may not only work as a preventive of sudden and unjust changes in rates, but it may result in great positive good by bringing shippers and railway representatives into more intimate and close relations with one another. To accomplish this, however, much patience and forebearance will be required on all sides and a strong and continuous effort must be made by all to put aside as far as possible petty considerations and work for the common good."

500 CHILDREN SEEK MISSING BOY

Five hundred school children and a diver employed by the boy's parents are searching to-day for ten-year-old John Ryder, who has been missing from his home at No. 19 Moore street, East Boston, since last Wednesday. The diver is examining the bottom of Chelsea creek, near "Dizzy bridge," in an endeavor to locate the boy's body, as he was last seen on the structure, reaching over to gather drift wood that swept up the stream on the flood tide. The children, all of whom go to the Bishop Cheverus school, are making a thorough search for the boy on land after school hours.

CLOSE CALL FROM DEATH UNDER CARS

Frank Johnson, thirty-three, of No. 67A Broadway, Somerville, a carpenter, employed by the Boston & Maine Railroad, to-day narrowly escaped being crushed to death beneath a freight car in the Mystic yards of the road. He was pinned under the car for nearly an hour. He was at work on an empty freight car on a spur track, the rear trucks of the car projecting on to the main line. A string of empties struck the car and overturned it, Johnson being pinned between the cars. He was taken to the Relief Hospital, where it was said he was not seriously injured.

MISS GASTON, LEADER IN WAR ON CIGARETTE

WOMAN FOE OF CIGARETTE COMING HERE

Miss Lucy Page Gaston, founder and superintendent of the Anti-Cigarette League, is coming back to Boston soon to see how her anti-cigarette organizations in this city are flourishing.

She has just arrived in New York from Chicago. She intends to stay in New York till she has enlisted one million persons in the death-on-cigarettes movement. Then she will come to this city.

She was in Boston in 1905. She started branches of the Anti-Cigarette League in Boston. She addressed the Legislative Committee on Public Health at the State House, and mass meetings in Faneuil Hall. She came back here in April of last year and continued her good work. She formed Anti-Cigarette Leagues in the schools and Sunday Schools. These Leagues are in healthy condition now.

Despatches from New York to-day quote Miss Page as saying:

"While I am fighting mostly against cigarettes, the League is also opposed to all forms of tobacco. Cigarettes form a greater evil than alcohol. I visited the Night Court last night and the effect of cigarette smoking was shown in the awful examples of depraved humanity that I saw there. Hopeless women and men, ruined by cigarettes and drink, filled the court room. It was one of the worst I have ever witnessed. A visit to that court should be enough to convince anybody that my claims are true.

"I intend to lecture to cigarette-smoking women on the frightful evils that will befall their offspring if the mothers persist in the habit.

"I have started to form what I call 'The million club' here in New York. This will be an organization composed of young men who will enroll under the banner of the League and work to stamp out the cigarette evil. I shall stay in New York until the million club has a full membership. If I can do nothing else I shall endeavor to get all the young men I can to sign a pledge promising not to smoke any form of tobacco until they are twenty-one years old."

AGED MAN DIVES FROM TENTH STORY

NEWARK, N. J., June 20.—A man, probably seventy years old, and as yet unidentified, committed suicide by diving from the roof of the ten-story Scheuer building, at Broad and Commerce streets.

The man attracted the attention of persons on the street by walking along the narrow parapet at the edge of the roof. Two policemen hurried to the roof and found the man sitting in an easy attitude on the ledge of the building, three feet below the parapet.

"Come back here, what are you doing there?" shouted one policeman.

"Just getting some air," calmly replied the man.

Then, before the policeman could get near him, the man arose, ran nimbly around to the Commerce street side of the building and dived head first to the granite pavement below.

PASTOR WEDS; MAY QUIT CHARLESTOWN

One well-known Charlestown pastor has handed in his resignation, another has declined a call to a Chicopee Falls church, while still another, who weds June 30, has a call under consideration.

The Rev. John Evans, for several years pastor of the First Universalist Church in Thompson square, will retire.

The Rev. A. Morrill Osgood of Trinity Church, High street, has declined a call to Chicopee Falls.

The Rev. Oakel Fowler Hall, acting pastor of the Winthrop Congregational Church on Green street, is considering a call to North Dakota. He will be married on Thursday evening, June 30, to Miss Edna A. Barker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Barker of Charlestown.

PLYMOUTH BANKER DEAD AT AGE OF 93

PLYMOUTH, June 20.—William Ryder Drew, one of Plymouth's oldest and best known citizens, passed away at his home here at the age of ninety-three years. Mr. Drew was one of Plymouth's pioneer merchants. He was a prominent church member and for many years associated in the banks of the town. For forty years he was one of the directors of the Old Colony National Bank and for twenty years president of the Plymouth Five Cents Savings Bank.

PRIEST EXTENDS PAPAL BLESSING

While his congregation prayed for the world's peace, Rev. Father P. J. Supple of St. John's Church, Roxbury, who has recently returned from a visit to Rome, delivered the papal blessing to 700 of his parishioners at the Mission Church of St. Hugh's, Blue Hill avenue.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

Now that he railroad bill has been enacted the captains of the great transportation industry know "where they are at."

$ $ $

State Street despises the mixture of politics and business, but it cannot get away from it. It has contended for many years that business has bee nhurt by political intervention, but as the coming congressional campaign is to be fought along business lines the Street will be compelled to make the best of it.

$ $ $

This is to be a tariff revision year, and the efforts of the revisionists are to be directed toward the lowering of the steel, woolen and sugar schedules. Woolen and sugar stocks do not cut so much figure in stock market operations, but the iron and steel securities do, and what affects them adversely will reduce the price level.

$ $ $

Retrenchment which will bring with it a restoration of our rightful international trade position is going on in all lines. This easing down of the trade and industrial machinery, in itself insurance against any real trouble later in the year, is fortunately accompanied by the promise of excellent harvests of al lour leading crops.

$ $ $

He is home and Morgan is on the way. Now what? Will big crops overcome fear of the Administration? Will the administration be able to overcome its own fear of Roosevelt? Or will more business interests be attacked in the interests of high politics? These are the questions State Street is worrying about.

$ $ $

The conservative investor and trader makes more money in the long run than the plunger because he has a more open mind. He will sell on the advances and buy on the declines, and this makes his dividend many times over in the course of a year.

$ $ $

The recent drastic liquidation has prepared the market in some degree for the worst the railroads look for, and seasoned dividend-paying securities have gone to a level where investors may be tempted to make discriminating purchases, but it is apparent that it would not be wise to make commitments which might prove embarrassing in case adverse factors should prove more than ordinarily influential.

$ $ $

In spite of the rosy reports made on the crops it must not be forgotten that it is necessary for favorbale weather to continue until late in the Summer before the exact status of Spring wheat and corn is known. Neither can it be said that all the signs are promising so far as cotton is concerned.

$ $ $

The Morgan interests are outspoken in their belief that prices will work higher, but the Standard Oil people persist in pointing out that the Supreme Court has yet to decide three cases of great importance to every business interest in America, and that until these decisions are rendered no business in America can be carried on with certainty that it will not have to be reorganized.

$ $ $

The expectation in the Street is that St. Paul will declare the usual semi-annual dividend of 3½ per cent. in July, although it has not been earned. Yet the Street is not unduly pessimistic because of this, as it is taken for granted that the St. Paul people are hopeful of the future. Paying the stockholders out of the profit and loss account is not regarded, usually, as the best business policy, however.

$ $ $

Monetary conditions display continuing ease. Bank reserves are piling up both here and in England, and while bankers are constantly emphasizing the need of caution it seems now entirely probable that the country will approach its regular autumnal financial necessities in an exceedingly well prepared way.

$ $ $

Buying of Wabash preferred may have some significance, but the Street has not become aware of it. Nothing has been heard of late regarding the accumulation of this security in the hope that somebody would come along and make good the dividend on it. The prospects regarding payments are somewhat remote so far as the Street is able to figure out.

$ $ $

Nevada Consolidated is expanding its steam shovel operations to facilitate the extraction of ore by steam shovel at a low cost. This new development will eventually open up into the Copper Flat pit, where practically all the ore is now coming from. This is a very important development at Nevada Consolidated.

$ $ $

The Superior & Boston Copper Company is continuing its shipments of 90 tons of ore averaging 10 per cent copper to the Old Dominion smelter daily. This ore is being stoped on the 800-foot level of the McGaw shaft.

$ $ $

It is probable that the fiercest fight in the Street is being waged around Amalgamated Copper. Six months or so ago it was selling above 90, and now the bears are predicting 40 for it. The real basis of the fight is the condition of the metal market. Sales are being made at 12½ cents, but even at that no one can find out how much actually is being sold. Stocks in Europe are declining, but they are increasing here.

SPICER SHOOTS JEDGE, SAH!

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR FATHER STRUM

The funeral of Rev. Fr. Edmund M. Strum, S. J., late rector of the Holy Trinity German Catholic Church, Shawmut avenue, took place today at the church. Fifty priests chanted the office of the dead. A solemn requiem high mass was celebrated. Rev. Fr. Joseph Faver was the celebrant; Rev. Thomas I. Gasson, S. J., deacon; Rev. Fr. Henry White, sub-deacon; Rev. Leo Knappe, D. D., master of ceremonies, and Rev. Fr. Mellec assistant. Sixty boys of the sanctuary choir sang under the direction of Organist Joseph L. Eckert. The pall-bearers were Louis Steinerlouis, Joseph Brock, Joseph Stang, Henry Wessling, Valentine Eckert and John Dario. The following societies were represented: Teutonia Council, K. of C., Holy German Catholic Club, St. Otella, St. Cecilia, Holy Trinity, and Germania Court of Foresters. The burial was at Holy Cross Cemetery, Worcester.

(Our Down Town Office is Now Centrally Located at 597 Washington St.)
OF REPLACING LOST TEETH
Without the Use of Old Style Crowns and Bridges
Popular Prices It is not necessary to pay high rates for this kind of work. If you have a few solid teeth or roots left the missing teeth can be restored without recourse to the old style crowns or bridges. Dr. Estabrooks' improved "ALVEOLAR" Method is absolutely painless and there is not the slightest appearance of artificiality in the mouth when the Dr. Estabrooks System is used.

ANCHOR DENTURE PLATE -NO- ROOF

$8.00 Full Set This celebrated Anchor Denture plate is the finest thing of its kind in existence. No roof to prevent the perfect taste. The wearer can talk better than with old-style plate—comfortable, cool and clean and fits better, it never drops, shifts or displaces to cause the wearer embarrassment.

Dr. Estabrooks makes the best set of teeth that dental science can produce for $8, that is all that it will be necessary for any one to pay in his establishment unless a gold or special plate is ordered. A $5 set, the best for the price, will be made if necessary.

COPPER SHARES LEAD MARKET

There was a firm tone to the local market at the opening to-day, though trading was confined mostly to odd lots. After the first hour trading became fairly active, with the copper issues showing the most strength on what appeared to be buying by the public. Sentiment in these stocks was in the main bullish, but in some quarters a disposition is shown to take profits on all bull movements.

Buying of Amalgamated and North Butte was the incentive for the better feeling towards the coppers, as these shares should be the last to respond to any favorable development of the copper metal market, because of their large capital and high cost of production.

BALLOON GIRL TO TRY AGAIN

ST. LOUIS, June 20.—Her nerve unbroken after her fight with death 1,000 feet above the earth in a storm-lashed balloon, Miss Julia Hoerner to-day declared she would try again at the first opportunity. She made her first balloon trip Sunday as a pilot accompanied by Captain John Barry, a veteran aeronaut. Ten minutes after sailing she encountered a stormcloud and was tossed about by a fierce wind at an altitude of 1,000 feeet. By cool-headedness she managed to drop below the stormcloud, but was overtaken by the wind and blown against tree tops and hedges, which nearly capsized the balloon basket when she attempted to land. She finally landed near Clayton in St. Louis County, badly bruised, but game to the core.

JAMES J. HILL WILL GET A YALE DEGREE

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 20.—The visit to this city of James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad, as the guest of Professor H. W. Farnam the coming week, is understood to be coincident with the awarding of a degree of LL. D. to him by Yale University.

USE GAS THE MODERN FUEL

COOKING ADVICE

SERVICES OF EXPERTS

ONE of the REASONS we started our HOUSE to HOUSE CANVASS at this time of the year was to enable OUR EXPERTS to ADVISE our customers how to get the BEST RESULTS from the use of GAS for COOKING.

ADVANTAGES OF GAS

With the coming of the HOT DAYS of summer, the housewife realizes the ADVANTAGES of a COOL KITCHEN and the COMFORT and CONVENIENCE of the GAS RANGE.

Our FORTY REPRESENTATIVES, in their INVESTIGATIONS regarding the GENERAL CONDITIONS of the gas service, are accordingly instructed to INQUIRE PARTICULARLY regarding the OPERATION of the GAS RANGE and GAS WATER HEATER.

DEFECTS REMEDIED

If there is any MECHANICAL DIFFICULTY or unsatisfactory operation, an Inspector will gladly be sent free of charge to REMEDY the TROUBLE. Should any of our customers be UNFAMILIAR with the BEST METHODS of COOKING by GAS, a WOMAN DEMONSTRATOR will be sent to GIVE INSTRUCTIONS.

ALL GAS KITCHENS

The EVER INCREASING NUMBER of houses and flats equipped with GAS COOKING APPLIANCES ONLY, with no provison for a coal stove, so that GAS may be used the YEAR ROUND is a CONVINCING and GRATIFYING PROOF of the GENERAL APPRECIATION of the CONVENIENCE and ECONOMY of the ALL-GAS-KITCHEN.

DO NOT WAIT for OUR REPRESENTATIVE to call, as it will take us SOME TIME to COMPLETE this CANVASS, but if you are in need of his services, or those of our WOMEN DEMONSTRATORS, notify us at once.

DR. DIXWELL TO SAVE GIRL FROM PAUPER GRAVE

If the relatives of seventeen-year-old Helen Shields, who committed suicide in a house on West Newton street because her fiance failed to keep his word, will not save her body from the Potter's Field, then Dr. John Dixwell, the philanthropist of No. 52 West Cedar street, will see that the unfortunate girl has decent burial.

Dr. Dixwell telephoned to-day to Medical Examiner Leary:

"I'll bury her. Nobody ought to begrudge the poor girl a hole in the ground."

Then he called Undertaker Jones of Lagrange street:

"Undertaker Jones, if the relatives of Miss Helen Shields don't want her body, bury her and send the bill to me."

Due time will be given for the relatives to refuse to accept the body. In that event Dr. Dixwell will have her interred in either Forest Hills or Mt. Hope Cemetery.

The girl was found lying across the bed in a room on the fifth floor of the house with the gas turned on. She was dead when found by the landlady and her cheeks were still wet with tears. Her only worldly possessions were four rings which she wore on her fingers.

Medical Examiner Leary ordered the body removed to the City Hospital morgue. Mrs. Elizabeth Shields, the mother of the girl, who lives at No. 28 May street, Lowell, was sent for. She is in destitute circumstances and cannot afford to pay the expenses of a funeral for her daughter.

The ball game, general sports, besides the news of the world, will be just as interesting to you no matter where you are this Summer on your vacation, so have the evening and Sunday AMERICAN mailed to you. KILLED GOVERNESS, COACHMAN ON TRIAL

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 20.—The trial of Frank Schermerhorn, a coachman, charged with the murder of Miss Sarah O. Brymer, a governess in the family of Barnes Compton, by whom Schermerhorn also was employed, at Millbrook last January, began to-day before Supreme Court Justice Morschauser. The governess was killed after being attacked at midnight while sleeping in the room with the Comptons' only child during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Compton. After strangling the woman the murderer carried off jewels and plate to make it appear the work of thieves. After being questioned, Schermerhorn tried to cut his throat. He then tried to divert suspicion to the family's Japanese butler, Sotari Ohashi, by saying the butler had given him the stolen goods. Later he confessed he had killed the governess.

MUST SETTLE FOR DAMAGE BY RATS

The transportation department of the Boston Chamber of Commerce has investigated the liability of steamship companies for damage to shipments caused by rats. The result goes to show that the transportation companies are liable for such damages unless they take measures to free their steamers of rats. If this is done then the shipper can secure no damage allowance, and unless this is done the transportation company is liable despite any clause in the bill of lading.

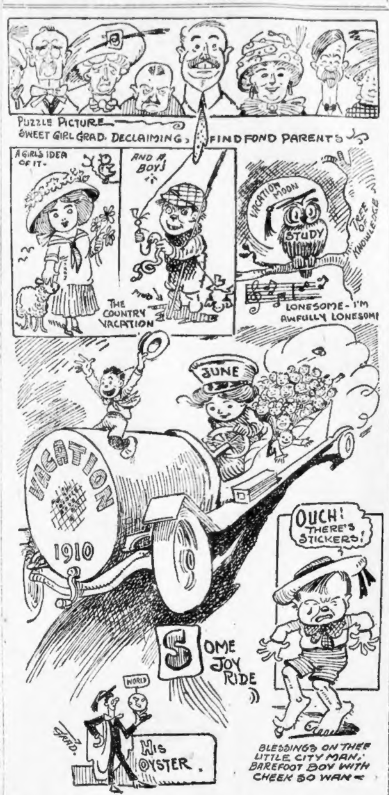
CHAUFFEUR KILLED ON RAILROAD TRACKS

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 20—In an unsuccessful effort to save his automobile from destruction by an approaching Delaware & Hudson railroad train, Walter Brown, a chauffeur of this village, was struck and instantly killed on a crossing. The machine in which Brown and a party of friends were riding, became stalled on the track. The other members jumped in time, but Brown remained in his seat and worked at the starting apparatus until it was too late. He was thirty years old.

KENTUCKY TRAIN JUMPS THE TRACK

PARIS, Ky., June 20.—Passenger train 84, of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, jumped the track near Falmouth to-day, derailing several cars. One report said several were killed and three postal clerks and an express messenger were injured while another said no one was seriously hurt. All the physicians here were rushed to the scene.

HAPPY DAYS!



800 DRUGGISTS IN CONVENTION

The wives, sisters and sweethearts of the druggists are to be a more important feature than ever at the three-days' annual convention of the Massachusetts State Pharmaceutical Association which opens at the Ocean House, Swampscott, to-morrow.

For the first time in the twenty-nine years' history of the association the women are to assist in entertaining. To-morrow night the Traveling Men's Auxiliary will put on an entertainment for the druggists. One of the numbers on the program will be the sketch, "The Kleptomaniac," put on by members of the woman's organization of the Boston Association of Retail Druggists. Mrs. Charles A. Stover of Cambridge is president of the woman's organization.

Over 800 druggists are expected at the convention.

OVERCOME BY GAS.

A man who registered under the name of George Johnson at the Falmouth House, on Causeway street, yesterday afternoon, was found by the chambermaid early today lying on the bed full dressed, but unconscious from gas poisoning. Taken to the Relief Hospital, he said that he was August Johnson, of No. 66 Spencer street, Lynn. He will recover.

JILTED SUITOR TAKES POISON

Despondent because a girl who worked with him refused to listen to his wooing Waldo Dunton, a farm hand, committed suicide at the Shumway farm, West Medway, by drinking strychnine. Dr. N. P. Quint of West Medway said that Dunton's fatal potion was sufficiently big to kill eighty persons. Dunton drank the poison in a barn where it was kept stored for use in spraying trees on the farm.

Running from the barn, Dunton created consternation by entering the farm lodging house and exclaiming dramatically: "I have taken a lot of strychnine!"

The house was crowded at the time with employes from the fields. Several who had presence of mind rushed to Dunton's assistance. He was given tumblers of mustard and hot water, but this proved futile. He suffered the greatest pain and died before Dr. Quint, who had been telephoned for, had arrived.

Dunton had worked at the farm for three months. Other employes say he became enamored of one of the girls working there. They declared she did not reciprocate his affection, and that he became discouraged. To-day they said they had noticed Dunton acting queerly for some time.

STATE LEADER A. O. H. SEEKS NEW OFFICE

WORCESTER, June 20.—John J. Rogers, State president of the A. O. H. for Massachusetts, is quoted as saying to-day that he will not be a candidate for re-election to that office in the State convention to be held in Lowell, Aug. 21. His successor as State president will probably be John Dillon of Boston, who is now vice-president. Captain Rogers will leave July 17 for Portland, Oregon, to attend the national convention of the order. It is said that he may be a candidate for the office of national vice-president.

Matthew Cummings of Boston has declared his intention of seeking a third term and has been pledged the support of the Massachusetts delegation, but he may change his mind and withdraw.

TROLLEY POLE FALLS ON TERMINAL CROWD

Two persons were injured by a falling trolley pole from a Boston Elevated car on the upper level of the Sullivan square terminal to-day. The heavy pole was being turned from one end of the car to the other. Its fastenings became loosened, and the heavy log of wood crashed among a crowd of waiting passengers. O. D. Bingham of No. 525 Eastern avenue, Malden, and Minnie Murphy of No. 1 Stetson court, Charlestown, were both struck. Bingham was injured about the body and legs. Miss Murphy was struck on the head and more seriously hurt. Both were taken to the Relief Hospital in the ambulance from the City square police station.

CITY AT LAST BALKS ON ONE MAN'S THIRST

ANDERSON, Ind., June 20.—After the community had borne the expense of the arresting, convicting and imprisoning of John Bricker on the charge of intoxication 300 times in ten years, Mayor Foster today decided that he should be sent to a drink cure sanitarium at the expense of the city. The Mayor said he believed this would save the city money.

RAIN AND HEAT RAISE HAVOC IN GLIDDEN RUNS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., June 20.—What remained of the national auto reliability tour field day negotiated the 53-mile run from Little Rock to this city in a light shower, followed by intense heat.

The rough going and bridgeless streams were responsible for the elimination of two more cars and the further penalization of a pair of Glidden division automobiles.

The Lexington 103 was withdrawn, and the Cartercar, No. 108, is out of the running. Ohio 11 took on water and was penalized 18 points, while Cino 15 was charged 16 points for tightening bolts in a wheel.

No charge was made in the standing of the three perfect score machines, Premier No. 1, Chalmers No. 5 and Maxwell No. 7.

Following the break-neck finish of the tour at Little Rock the battle over rough roads was only an incident. Rain fell in the afternoon seriously curtailing the series of drives and receptions planned for the entertainment of the tourists. The latter generally remained close to the Arlington, taking the hot baths and resting for what is now expected will be almost as strenuous a test as was the leg from Sheffield to Memphis.

It is 138.3 miles to Texarkana, and for miles the country to be traversed abounds in rocky gullies in the road, as well as stretches of heavy going, where cars will have to go to the first speed for plowing through.

Hogback rock-breaks are reported between Social Hall and Arkadelphia, while for more than fifty miles beyond the turns in the rocky defiles are dangerously sharp. Swamp roads, with a number of stumps that necessitates careful driving to save mufflers, also are problems for the motorists.

Major Davidson and his Northwestern military academy lads, on one of the Cadillac gun cars, are encamped on a portion of the Government reservation, while E. C. Garland, in charge of the second gun car, is hastening from Helena to overtake the other military car.

Officials of the tour permitted drivers to work for half an hour adjusting brakes as a safety measure for the expected struggle. The arrangements for protecting the parked machines on Central avenue near the Arlington, caused several drivers to make caustic comments. No ropes were put up to keep out the curious.

The penalties are given in the following list of cars in the two divisions of the tour:

Glidden—1, Premier, perfect; 2, Premier, perfect; 5, Chalmers, perfect; 7, Maxwell, perfect; 9, Parry, perfect; 10, Glide, perfect; 11, Ohio, 18 points; 12, Ohio, perfect; 15, Cino, 16 points.

Chicago trophy—Molines, 100; 101, 102, perfect; Lexington, 103, withdrawn; Falcar, 106, perfect; Parry, 105, perfect; Maxwell, 107, perfect; Westcott, 111, perfect; Cartercar, 108, withdrawn.

JEWS PLAN WHITE PLAGUE HOSPITAL

Many representatives of various Jewish charitable societies met at the American House to consider the advisability of building near Boston, a hospital for the treatment of consumptive Jewish patients. At present the Jewish societies are contributing to the National Jewish Consumptive Relief Association, with its hospital at Denver. Dr. T. M. Davidson and H. H. Levenson spoke.

600 Babies Attend Church.

NEW YORK, June 20.—No woman without a baby was permitted to attend services yesterday at the Catholic Church of St. John Chrysostom in the Bronx. This announcement caused the women in the neighborhood who had not received a visit from the stork to look around for youngsters. Those residents of the Bronx anxious to get away this week-end without their babies had no difficulty in finding custodians for them. Six hundred babies, 400 of which were either in arms or mere toddlers, and 300 mothers or guardians were present at the services.

ROOSEVELT CONFERS WITH SECRETARY MEYER ON REPUBLICAN CRISIS

NEW YORK, June 20.—Theodore Roosevelt stole a march on the newspaper men this forenoon, and instead of coming along from Oyster Bay on an early train with the family party bound to Theodore, Jr's, wedding, he stole off with Secretary of the Navy Meyer to the latter's yacht, the Dolphin and held a long political conference with the Secretary on the sail to New York down the Sound.

It had been announced at the Roosevelt home that the Colonel would accompany the family on the train leaving for New York at 8:45. A crowd of villagers and a score of more of newspaper men were at the little station when the family party rolled up without him. A rapid fire of questions finally elicited the fact that the Colonel had "put one over" as he used to do occasionally, and before the reporters could get to him the secretary's yacht, with Meyer and the Colonel cosily seated under an awning, was seen churning up the waters of the Sound speeding New Yorkwards.

Political Situation Discussed.

This eleventh-hour change in Mr. Roosevelt's plans was thought to be due to his desire to thoroughly thresh out the general political situation with the secretary, who was one of the most intimate of the friends that comprised his famous "tennis cabinet."

Secretary Meyer arrived at Oyster Bay yesterday, too late to attend the first of the political conferences the ex-President had arranged for at his home. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, another of the ex-President's close friends, and Nicholas Longworth, Secretary Meyer and Mr. Roosevelt were to have gone over the situation together. The secretary was delayed and did not arrive until the talk had been finished.

These heart-to-heart Summer political conferences of which yesterday's and to-day's mark the beginning, will make Oyster Bay, rather than Beverly, Mass., the real Republican national headquarters this Summer. Roosevelt to-day politically overshadows Taft, and the Summer home of the ex-President and not the seacoast cottage of the executive will be the Mecca of both insurgent and regular leaders during the hot month.

To Talk With Rebel Leaders.

Colonel Roosevelt has issued what is generally viewed as a sweeping invitation to the political chieftains to come to him with their troubles in his reiterated declaration that he will not publicly discuss politics until he has thoroughly canvassed the general situation. Yesterday was the first step in this program.

Later the Colonel will talk with insurgents and regulars in their roles as such and get their views from their factional angles.

Progressive Republican leaders here profess to view Colonel Roosevelt's determination to keep strictly out of the fight for a couple of months as decidedly in their favor.

"It means he isn't coming out flatfooted for the administration right on the jump, as so many of the regulars declared he would," said one of these leaders to-day.

The Republican State leaders declared that Mr. Roosevelt's attitude leaves the fight in the State between the Hughes forces and the reactionists just where his coming found it; that his hands-off policy will carry him beyond the term of the extra session and see the direct primaries issue fought to a finish before he breaks silence.

To Oppose Insurgency.

Colonel Roosevelt imparted the information to two of his specially invited guests at Sagamore Hill that he purposes to take the stump at the earliest practical date against the rising tide of insurgency in the Republican party and do all he can to sweep it back. With this object in view he will make, at Kansas City, not later than the first week in September, the first of the series of political speeches with which he intends to enlighten the country upon his views and wishes. Unless he should change the determination he plainly expressed to-day, he will attack severely the insurrection in his party, and deliver a stinging rebuke to everybody in and out of Congress who has participated in the movement.

It is considered possible, of course, that after conferring further with party leaders from other parts of the country Mr. Roosevelt may change his mind.

Impressed by Foss Victory.

Fully to appreciate the attitude of Colonel Roosevelt on this question, it should be known that he regards New England as still the leader of the intellectual and political life of the country. The fact that in one of the strongest Republican districts in Massachusetts there was a few weeks ago a big political upset when Foss, Democrat, was elected to Congress, has impressed him deeply with the extent of the insurgent movement. He is known to believe that but for the insurgent outbreak in Congress the Foss victory would have been impossible.

While neither Senator Lodge nor Secretary Meyer is insurgent in spirit or affiliation, they represent divergent views and purposes in the Republican politics of New York.

Colonel Roosevelt went directly from the yacht when he landed to the Outlook office, where he closeted himself with his secretary and declined to see callers. It was said for him that he would remain at work in the office until it was time to go to the wedding.

HARMON IS SURE OF RENOMINATION

COLUMBUS, O., June 20.—Governor Harmon will be nominated by acclamation at the Democratic State convention in Dayton to-morrow. The attempt of National Committeeman Garber to stir up the so-called Bryan element in Ohio against Harmon and thus defeat his renomination, fell flat some time ago, and Garber is now contenting himself in an effort to secure control of the State executive committee. Harmon's splendid administration and the expose of graft in State offices under Republicans made at his instigation have made him stronger than ever, and the Republicans at this late date are still in a quandary as to who to put up against him.

2 FISHERMEN GO TO DEATH IN THICK FOG

GLOUCESTER, June 20.—Two of the crew of the Gloucester schooner Rob Roy, Captain John Glynn, were lost in a dory during a thick fog, off the Quero banks. Two of the crew of the schooner Dictator, Gloucester, Captain Fred Thompson, went through an exciting experience off the same fishing banks, and narrowly escaped with their lives. Reports of the two accidents came to-day, when both schooners made port in Gloucester Harbor.

Three weeks ago the crew of the Rob Roy set trawls. In one of the dories were Thomas Rabin of Arichat, C. B., and Richard Walsh of Newfoundland. A heavy fog fell. Rabin and Walsh failed to return to the schooner, so Captain Glynn ordered guns to be fired and torches to be burned. This was kept up all night. The next day when the fog lifted, the two men were nowhere to be seen. It is supposed their dory capsized and they were drowned. The Rob Roy flew its flag at half mast to-day.

On the Quero banks, on June 10, the crew of the Dictator put out in dories, during the trawling process. A large billow overturned the dory in which were Charles Gustafson and William O'Neill. The men were not missed. They held on to the painter line attached to their dory. Three times they managed to ride the bottom of the boat, but every time they were knocked off by the waves. After half an hour's exhausting work, their plight was noticed and they were saved by men in another dory.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

George Lathrop, forty years old, was found dead in bed early to-day in the lodging house at No. 1,115 Washington street. Lathrop was a member of the Danish Brotherhood of Boston Lodge. The body was removed to the City Hospital Morgue.

Legislative Corruption—What Are You Going to do About it?

COSMOPOLITAN

The American Revolution of 1910

—an insurrection, at least, which promises to be as historic a revolution and as important to the future welfare of this country as that of 1776.

Alfred Henry Lewis word-pictures this struggle—the "Tariff War"—in JULY COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE as only Alfred Henry Lewis can.

He traces his study of the twenty years of fighting in this big fight, that has just culminated in the defeat of Cannon, who for years has "Czared it" over this country through his control of Congress.

He shows how these wily legislators have increased the cost of the upkeep of this Government from a dollar a head for each person in the country to fourteen dollars a head—so that the people would be compelled to keep on allowing the country to have "protective tariff," under the name of "tariff for revenue only," for the benefit of the pockets of the "Interests."

You want to know what the "Tariff War" really is, who the men are that are fighting YOUR fight, and who are fighting against you.

You know what the latest tariff bill has done to the cost of living. Do you want that to continue?

Read this Lewis story of the "Tariff War."

Other features in the JULY COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE are:—Masterful fiction by Eliza Calvert Hall (who writes her last "Aunt Jane" story), O. Henry, George Randolph Chester, Porter Emerson Browne, Bruno Lessing and others; special articles by Charles Edward Russell, who writes on legislative corruption in the various States of the Union; Diana Bellais, who writes about vivisection of human beings as well as animals, and a symposium on the cost of living by Hutchins Hapgood, John Kirby Jr., George Lewis, Gage Tarbell and J. J. Goldman.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Well, it's the ninth inning, boys.

And the Governor has just smashed out a clean home run, causing Rickard to give up game here and tackle another over in Nevada.

Tex has wired he will have made all terms as to the exact place before the sun sets tonight.

Lets hope this is true, for we have had plenty of this backing and filling.

But its Nevada for the big fight, which lets us off at that part of the worriment, at least.

Eddie Hanlon is thinking of grabbing a job at Berger's store. Sam loaded his shirt and collar joint down with the finest line of stuff you ever saw expecting a rush from New York. Now that it looks like Reno Sam is prepared for a tourists' sale next week. Everything at half-price.

Jim Coffroth is around with that same old smile. He doesn't know whether he'll ever hold another go here, but that smile will not fade away.

Mr. Charley Harvey, the last well-known importer, is strutting the streets here all dolled up in his Western scenery. Have a hunch that he was pulled into Berger's store, too. He's a bear.

Had His "Tux" On.

Ketchel and his man Mizner are here, taking in everything in town. Steve was around last night with his Tux on, and having the time of his life. He does not know whether he's going to fight or not. He just likes Frisco, he says and won't leave for at least a week. He will see Jeffries and Johnson box, however, no matter whether it's Alaska or Ecuador.

Jack Gleason received a letter from a plumber in Iowa, and it was a bear. The dope follows:

"I see that you expect to lose $50,000 or more on account of tall buildings surrounding your arena. I have a scheme that will kill all rubber necks. Pipes running up around the fence that will shoot volumes of steam closing out the view of those on the house tops. For $500 you may have my plans."

I asked Sam Berger what he thought of the fight. "Of course I don't know exactly," piped the collar and shirt dealer, "but I'll make a little wager that it's a long affair. Jeffries was never a quick finisher, and as for Johnson, the pace never bothered him. I think it will take them both five or six rounds to get going good."

Denver Ed Kelly says that Johnson has no more chance than a pair of white kid gloves has in Pittsburg.

Purse is Split.

Hear that the purse is split between the two birds. The fellows in the know speak of it as though it had been agreed upon sometime ago.

Mat Larkin figures that no matter how well Jeffries looks that the thing is cooked and dried so far as the match is concerned and that Jeffries is in for a fine lacing. He says:

"We have had too many of these old birds here trying to come back. Fitzsimmons looked great against O'Brien, but he could not lead. He fell down flat three or four times when he led at O'Brien. The trouble is with these old fellows that they lost their eye and can't put a lead over.

"They say that Johnson is weak because he never chases a man. Tommy Ryan played that game for years and was known as a wonder. Tommy always said that it was better to catch them coming than going. Johnson will have Jeffries paralyzed on that left-hand side in ten rounds. He'll be knocking Jeffries's left down so hard that the big fellow will go through in half an hour.

"This fellow Johnson is too clever and too strong. He is two years younger than Jeffries, but has been in harness all the time. He ought to beat Jeffries in fifteen rounds."

Alex Greggains is a strong Jeffries man. He says that they're going to put Jeffries's face on two-cent stamps next year. It's the only way that Johnson can lick him, declares the old middleweight.

Eats Too Much Chicken.

"I saw this fellow Johnson the other day," said Alec, "and I tell you that he's eating too much chicken. Once you get feeding those black fellows good and they're through. I think he is the poorest excuse for a champion that I ever seen. I refereed the fight he fought Hart here and I handed Hart the decision. Why, after the ninth round, Hart was tucking him all over the ring. What will Jeff do if Hart could shove him around? Jeff doesn't need to be as good as he was to beat Johnson. I don't think the whole fight will last over eight or nine rounds."

Caesar Attell, who has a brother named Abe, also a boxer, is a great Johnson booster. He says that Jeff will sprain his back trying to reach the colored fellow and that inside of twenty rounds more they will be lifting Jeff from the ring.

Jack Leahy, after seeing Johnson work out, says that there's nothing to the fight at all but the meerschaum gentleman. "Jeff was never a boxer and is not speedy. This fellow will make him slower than ever. If Fitzsimmons cut him to ribbons in six rounds, what will a clever fellow like Johnson do with that uppercut?"

Poor fellow! Johnson sold his moving picture rights for $50,000, and then gets the same amount over again, win, draw or lose. Must have a hard time keeping in clean collars.

JEFF ALL PACKED READY TO REMOVE TO THE NEW CAMP

JEFFRES'S TRAINING CAMP, Rowardennan, Cal., June 20.—General satisfaction was expressed by everybody this morning when word was received that Rickard had definitely given up the idea of trying to hold the fight in California and had left for Nevada, and that his plans had at last taken a concrete form and that arrangements could be made accordingly. Everything is packed and in readiness for the move to Nevada immediately. Jeff said this morning: "I shall leave for Nevada at once, making a quick getaway, as I will need all the training I can get in the new camp owing to the climatic changes."

The management of the Hotel Rowardennan is sore at Jeffries for various reasons, and there is likely to be a suit filed against him. It is a well-known fact that Jeff's training at this resort has been a financial bloomer for the hotel people, and they claim to be behind at least $5,000.

Jeffries's entire force of trainers, with the exception of Corbett, have been fed at the expense of the hotel, and the management has given teh best cottage on the grounds as well as putting up a handball court. It is also alleged that he was given a cut in the gambling privileges.

The blame is put on Jeff, as it is claimed he has disappointed crowds so often that the fans have been educated to Jeff's leaving the grounds when there was a crowd.

WHOLE PARTY AT JOHNSON'S CAMP READY TO GET OUT

JOHNSON'S TRAINING CAMP, San Francisco, Cal., June 20.—The trunks have not been locked at Johnson's training quarters on the beach, but they are packed to within a few inches of the lid and just eonugh room has been left to put in the punching bags, the pulleys and a few garments which the champion and his trainers may need.

Tom Flanagan, is the advance agent of the champion's moving. There will be at least a dozen in the party. Billy Delaney will go, too, and Al Kaufman will also accompany Johnson in the probable event of Louis Blot finding it impossible to put on the bout between the native son and Sam Langford.

Trainer Burns, "Doc" Furey, Frank Sutton and Sig Hart also will be in the party, and of course George Cotton and Dave Mills, the sparirng partners, will go. The big boxer's own cook will be taken also, so that chickens will be prepared in the manner approved by Jack and a special poultry yard will be one of the first things established in the new training quarters.

After his hard workout yesterday Johnson weighed just 212. To those present it was more than apparent that the two days of rest were a good thing for his condition. Jack just wadded into the rough stuff like a fiend and his face was just one large golden smile as he belabored the training apparatus and his sparring partners.

JOHNSON HAS A ROW WITH A REPORTER; YEP! IT'S TRUE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Previous to his boxing exhibition here, Johnson had a little "spat" with a local newspaper photographer and Sig Hart bandied words with a Chicago correspondent, who was accused of "roasting" Johnson. Hart ordered the easterner out of the pavilion, but when the mater was finally placed before Johnson, the latter said the reporter could do as he pleased.

In consequence Johnson was in the worst possible humor when he put on the gloves with George Cotton and the latter suffered in the five rounds allotted to him. Cotton was plainly distressed before the finish. Jack Mills finished up with three more rounds and Johnson concluded the program by punching the bag and tossing the medicine ball.

JENNINGS SAYS BIG PLAYERS MUST GO

"It seems that big men haven't a show in baseball any more," said Hughie Jennings, discussing the new men who have broken into the major league ranks in the last two years. "The new men all seem to be small in stature. There is not a demand for big men or the big men have ceased to excel at the game. The little fellows are crowding the big ones out.

"I remember when little men did not have much of a show in the game; when a prejudice seemed to exist against them. I can easily recall the time when to be a first baseman a man had to be tall; if he wasn't—'good night.' You find many men of medium height playing the initial sack to-day, and Tom Jones is a fine example. Everybody gets a show now, and they don't ask how tall he is, just so he delivers a good article of ball."

WILLIAMS-AMHERST GAME IS ON TO-DAY

Ahmerst and Williams play off their postponed game to-day. The big college game up-State will be played at Williamstown.

Amherst has beaten Williams one game, a no-hit, no-run game at that, but if the purple can even up the score to-day the Williams men will have the better of the argument, for they defeated Dartmouth twice, whereas an even break was the best Amherst could secure with the green.

Dartmouth, moreover, trounced Lafayette, and this was perhaps the most notable achievement of Dartmouth's season. Dartmouth was no mean opponent, winning twelve out of nineteen games, but Tufts, Cornell, Vermont, Holy Cross and Amherst won return games, and Williams, as stated, beat the Hanover men twice.

CONFLICT IN DATE OF LEWIS BATTLE

There is a conflict of dates in regard to the bout in London between Harry Lewis and Young Josephs. The first reports gave the date as June 25, which will be Saturday, but other reports from abroad have stated that the men will not meet until a week from to-night.

BILLY PAPKE JACK TWIN GO, CLASSY BOUT

Jack Twin Sullivan of Cambridge runs up against a rugged, classy boxer at the Armory A. A. to-morrow night, when he tackles Billy Papke, the "Illinois Thunderbolt." The bout, which is one of the best matches arranged by the club in a long while, will undoubtedly draw out a large attendance of members. That it will be a contest full of thrills, from the beginning to the end, there can be no doubt.

It is one of the classiest bouts arranged this season, as it brings together two men who are prominent in the boxing ranks of the country. There is no doubt about the ability of either men. Papke, the Illinois Thunderbolt, is still a contender for the highest middleweight honors, while Jack Twin has met the best men in his class for many years.

Many times the Twin has been forced to take on much bigger men than himself in order to keep in action. But in Papke he meets a man nearer his own weight, and the Twin will be right at home. His cleverness should more than offset the terrific wallop that Papke carries around with him.

Both Papke and Sullivan claim that they are anxious to square accounts with Stanley Ketchel and it is quite probable that Ketchel will consent to meet the winner of the bout.

As a preliminary to the main bout, two excellent matches have been arranged, the first bringing together two fast bantams in Kid Thomas of Lawrence and Tom Flanagan of Cambridge. The second "prelim" is a heavyweight affair between Bob Le Favor of Brockton and Tug Kennedy of Northampton, between whom there is bitter rivalry.

To-day is an open date for baseball in Boston as neither the Doves nor the Red Sox play at home. The Red Sox are speeding this way to open at the Huntington Avenue Grounds to-morrow with the Senators while the Doves are in Philadelphia to line up with the Quakers this afternooon for a short series.

There is a scarcity of contests in the American League to-day as the Eastern teams are homeward bound. There is only one game that may be played and that is St. Louis at Detroit as they have a postponed scrap to clean up. To-morrow the Western teams will fight among themselves while the Eastern clubs start something to decide which has it on the other.

Manager Lake is inclined to think that his Doves will do better on the road during the present trip than at any time during the series.

MORIARTY TO MEET BRIGGS AT BROCKTON

At the Young Men's Athletic Club at Brockton Friday night, Jimmy Moriarty of Lowell meets "Hayward" Briggs of Brockton, twelve rounds.

CHAMPION GOLF TITLE WILL BE DECIDED TO-DAY

This afternoon the triple tie for first money and the gold medal that goes with the open championship of the United States will take place over the linsk of the Philadelphia Cricket Club and it surely looks like a family game with two brothers known to the world of golf and J. J. McDermott, a youngster just out of school.

Alex Smith and his kid brother, McDonald from California, are the other two contestants, and while Alex has held the title before it is a new experience for this youngster to be at the top of the list in a big tourney. McDonald is nineteen years old and McDermott twenty. The former is slightly built, but a very long, accurate driver, nevetheless, while the latter is a sturdy lad who has learned the game through being a caddie for a number of years at Aronmink.

Tom McNamara, who was second at Englewood last year when Sargent won the title, was the only Boston "pro" to land in the money this year, and he shared fifth and sixth money with Gilbert Nichols of Wilmington who was attached to Woodland not very long ago, and is well known by all Massachusetts golfers.

Alec Ross of Brae Burn, who won the open title the last time it was played at Philadelphia, was way down in the list this year, finishing with 314, much to the Burn Club. George Sargent, last year's winner, was also out of the money by a good margin while Willie Anderson, who many picked to win the title this year was unable to egt into the money by only one stroke even though the match was played over his home course.

His younger brother is one of the coming players in this country. Jack Hutchinson (Andrew Carnegie's protege) and H. H. Barker, the former amateur champion of Ireland, made a good showing tieing for the last three money places.

It was rather noticeable the closeness of the field in this event for only five strokes separated the winner from the tenth man, and in four rounds of medal play a much closer competition would be impossible.

McDermott was by far the most consistent scorer, his rounds of 74-74-75-75—298 showing this clearly while Alex and McDonald Smith, were respectively 73-73-79-73—298, 74-78-775-71—298.

Diminutive Fred McLeod who won the championship two years ago in the playoff from another member of the Smith tribe (Willie Smith from Mexico) when the championship was held at Myopia, had the second best score of 299, but with three players tied for first he had to take fourth prize.

Jack Hobens, a former open champion of the Metropilitan district was the other prize winner and he took seventh money.

PIRATES FARM OUT NEW FIRST BASEMAN

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 20.—Captain Fred Clarke of the Pittsburg team announces that Silvester Vann, the Arkansas University man who was recently signed as a first baseman for the team, had been sold to the New Britain, Ct., club, and that Jack Flynn would resume his place at first for the Pirates as soon as his leg is in shape. When Vann was signed it was supposed that he was to take Flynn's place, owing to the stories of trouble in the club.

SWEDE RUNNER OUT TO CAPTURE TITLE

Gusta Ljungstrom and Hans Holmer will meet for the world's championship in the fifteen-mile race at the big professional meet of the Twentieth Century Club at Celtic Park on Saturday, July 2. Hans Holmer holds the record, and the Swede is going to try to take it away from him so that he can carry the laurels back to his fatherland when he sails soon after the big event.

2 STAR BOUTS SCHEDULED AT AMERICAN A. C.

The American Athletic Club has another double event this week in which Don Vincent, the boy who created such a favorable impression at the club's recent naval tournament, meets Tony Lorenzo, and George Alger of Cambridge measures skill against Pat Rocco, a promising 126-pounder from Haverhill.

Both bouts will be eight-round affairs and that fact should mean a couple of mills of the rapid fire order.

At the same show a special six-round bout will bring Teddy Murphy and Eddie Fitzgerald together at 105 pounds. Fitzgerald is the boy who won out in the Riverside tournament recently. The winner of this bout can well lay claim to the New England title at 105 pounds.

OPERA HOUSE TEAMS IN DIAMOND BATTLE

A speedy contest is looked for tomorrow at the South End grounds, when the Boston Opera House baseball team meets the Metropolitan Opera House nine. Manager Woodhead of the Boston team has arranged to have Mayor Fitzgerald throw out the first ball and Street Commissioner James A. Gallivan will hold the indicator.

HARVARD FIT FOR BATTLE; YALE CREW HANDICAPPED

YALE TRAINING QUARTERS, Gales Ferry, Ct., June 20.—Eleventh-hour change in the two Yale varsity crews seems imperative, because of the illness of Tucker, No. 2, in the varsity eight.

There is still a chance that he will return to the boat, but the fact that he has been taken to the General Hospital in New Haven for treatment for malaria makes it uncertain.

Tucker is undergoing treatment for malaria and expects to return to the rowing squad here to try to resume rowing. He has already been out of the shell a week and he will have only four days' preparation for the Harvard regatta.

It is regarded as extremely doubtful that he will be able to regain condition and row a four-mile race in the ten days that remain for training.

His condition makes it likely that Coburn, who has been at No. 2 in the varsity eight since Tucker became ill last Monday, will be a fixture there.

HARVARD TRAINING QUARTERS, Red Top, Ct., June 20.—All of the crews have light work to-day. The Harvard eight will probably be sent over the course either to-morrow or Wednesday afternoon.

Coach Wray is now doing most of the coaching from his single instead of from the launch, as he can illustrate the stroke to advantage by the former method. After two or three days of easy paddling all the boats will most likely be sent over the course.

With the exception of Bacon, all the oarsmen are in first-class condition. The cool weather and the out-door life at Red Top have sent them up in weight and increased their powers of endurance.

Not until the end of next week will it be possible to make a conservative guess as to the ultimate outcome of the races.

If Bacon's trouble should by any chance force him to retire from the boat for a long period the substitution of another man would probably prolong the unsettled condition of the four-oar.

OWNER OF GIANTS ON HIS WAY HOME

CHICAGO, June 20.—John T. Brush, who just arrived from San Antonio, continued his journey to New York to-day. The long journey north has taxed his strength.

"He improved," said Mrs. Brush, "but not as rapidly as I hoped."

"I am pleased with the standing of the Giants," said Mr. Brush, "and I believe they have an excellent chance for the pennant this year. The new men are doing excellent work. There is nothing in the story which has obtained circulation to the effect that the team will be sold. I hope to be in New York early this week."

BIKE RECORD FROM NEW YORK TO BOSTON

The record for road riding from New York to this city on a bicycle received another bump when a 20-year-old Providence youth lopped two hours off the previous mark. Alvin Loftus of the Rhode Island division of the Century Road Club of America is the new holder of the record.

Loftus left New York at 12:01 yesterday morning, and had pace as far as Bridgewater. He then had to travel alone to New Haven, where he was joined by a motor-cyclist, who took him to Springfield, where he arrived at 10:15 a. m. He reached here at 6:37, making the distance in 18 hours, 36 minutes.

HARVARD AND YALE IN ANNUAL DIAMOND BATTLE

Harvard and Yale clash on the baseball diamond at New Haven to-morrow. Although Yale is to-day a slight favorite, yet the supporters of the Crimson are firm in their belief that not only will Harvard win the Class Day game with Yale to-morrow, but will be victorious in the diamond battle to be fought out at the Stadium Thursday.

There is an unusual amount of speculation as to the probable outcome of the series. Harvard has met several reverses during the year, and although on the basis of veteran material she was a favorite at the beginning of the season, she can hardly be considered such to-day.

Aronson's injury took a lot of the team's strength. Yale, on the other hand, has had to do without Captain Philbin, and in some respects his loss offsets that of Aronson at Harvard. Still, the Harvard luck has been more persistently bad throughout the year.

Both teams lost to Princeton in their other "championship" series, Harvard dropping two straight games to the Tigers, while Yale was able to force the issue to a third game in New York.

Harvard Weak at Bat.

On the basis of these games Harvard appeared to be much weaker with the bat, a fault which has been very apparent all the season. In only one game, that against Cornell, have the Crimson batters been able to connect with anything like a real batting streak.

Harvard looks to McLaughlin, a comparatively new comer in the pitching department, as her strongest box card. He will pitch in to-morrow's game, Hicks being reserved for the Harvard-Yale game at the Harvard commencement.

Yale is likely to pitch Tommers in the first game, with Coy in reserve. Murfey, who was barred for the balance of the year by the Yale faculty for alleged participation in a student jollification and fracas, will be eligible for the second game. The Harvard men are inclined to shake their heads over this interpretation of the rules, although admitting that Murfey's punishment has probably been adequate, since he is said to have been in his room at the time the alleged outbreak occurred.

Team Practices To-day.

Harvard's outfield is not fully settled even at this late date. Both teams, in fact, have suffered from the inability of the coaches to make final selections for positions in sufficient season to develop team play properly and that sense of certainty and mutual reliance which comes when men are accustomed to playing side by side.

To-day the Harvard team went to the Yale field in the morning for a short practice and to familiarize themselves with the grounds. It is planned to do a little light work in the afternoon at Morris Cove, a place five miles from New Haven. All the men are in fine trim, and they think they will be able to do Yale on Tuesday.

HORSE NOTES and SPEEDWAY

A. J. Welch of the Readville track, who has been confined to his room at the hotel Belleview for several weeks, is able to be out again. He will take a vacation of a few weeks at the Summer residence of his friend, Orlando Jones, down on Long Island.

* * *

J. W. Brodbine has shipped his horses from the Readville track to Hillsgrove, R. I. The star of the stable is a three-year-old filly by Aquilin, 2:19¾, that Mr. Brodbine proposes to give her first racing experience over the half-mile track.

* * *

Gay Audubon, by Audubon Boy, 1:59¼, dam the great broodmare Gaiety Girl, 2:15¼, by Red Wilkes, beat 2:20 for the first time at his last workout. His mile in 2:19½ was very easy for him, and his gait and manners were perfect.

* * *

George G. Hall has added to his stable the bay trotting mare Lucy Lou, by Nelson's Wilkes, dam by Baron Wilkes. The mare has no record, but is a very fast trotter. Mr. Hall, however, bought her as a mate to the speedy little trotter Junior Wilkes that Mr. Hall bought down in Maine last Fall. Mr. Hall is one of the few Boston men now driving on the road who likes better than anything else to sit behind a fast and perfect mannered pair of trotters. If Lucy Lou and Junior Wilkes work together as well as it is hoped that they will he will have a pair that will not have to take anybody's dust.

NOT FOR BIG LEAGUE.

Cottrel, the Syracuse University pitcher, has been offered a berth on a major league team, but it is doubtful if he will accept. He twirled a no-hit-no-run game against Columbia at New York last month.

BOXING NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Ten years ago Tommy Burns knocked out a Detroit pug for $1.50. Now he has $250,000 stowed away.

The only scales in Jeffries's camp are those they scrape off the fish. The fighter refuses to weigh himself for his followers.

Now that Freddie Welsh and Packey McFarland will mingle again, the lightweight championship of England is expected to change hands. Packey will enter the ring a big favorite.

* * *

There is a chance of Abe Attell, the featherweight champion of the world, meeting Owen Moran of England in Los Angeles on June 24. Tom McCarey is anxious to stage the bout.

* * *

Jem Driscoll will arrive in England to-day or to-morrow, where he will make an effort to recover his lost health. Jem may return to our shores, but it will be some time before we see him in action.

* * *

Jeems Coffroth, the general and effervescent fight promoter in California, has established the fact that prize fights may not be held outside of incorporated cities in the Golden Gate State. Coffroth wanted to test this law, so he held a bout in San Mateo county and was promptly pinched with his fighters. The Superior Court then handed down the decision that fight permits could only be granted in cities.

* * *

Tommy Ryan thinks Con O'Kelly, the Irish grappler, who made such a poor showing on the mat, has the making of a fighter in him. Ryan has been teaching O'Kelly to box and will start him a bout shortly. O'Kelly and Al Benedict would make a great slamming match.

WOLTER RUN GETER

Harry Wolter is among the leading base runners and run getters of the country. Manager Stallings has found this fleet-footed Californian a mighty handy man this season.

BOUTS CARDED FOR THE WEEK

TO-NIGHT—Monte Attell vs. Patsey Brannigan, Pittsburg; Joe Thomas vs. Frank Mantell, California (?); Tom Kennedy vs. Jim Stewart, New York; Dick Nelson vs. Kid Burns, New York; Young Otto vs. Young Nitchie, Philadelphia; Tommy Rawson vs. Nap Dufresne, Lewiston, Me.; Max Baker vs. Bubbles Robinson, Glens Falls, N. Y.

TUESDAY—Bill Papke vs. Jack Twin Sullivan; Bob LeFavor vs. Tug Kennedy and Kid Thomas vs. Tom Flanagan, Armory A. A.; Tommy Murphy vs. Battling Hurley, Newark, N. J.; Sailor Burke vs. Jim Smith, New York; Joe Hyland vs. Kid Burns, New York.

WEDNESDAY—Bouts, National A. C., Philadelphia; Eddie McGoorty vs. Tony Caponi, Thermopylae, Wyoming.

THURSDAY—George Alger vs. Pat Rocco and four preliminary bouts, American A. C.

FRIDAY—Pal Moore vs. Teddy Broad, New York; Soldier Burns vs. Frank Loughrey, Baltimore; Young McDonough vs. Bubbles Robinson, Manchester, N. H.; Haywood Briggs vs. Jim Moriarty, Bob LeFavor vs. Jeff Madden, and Young Ginsburg vs. Young Burke, Young Men's A. C., Brockton.

SATURDAY—Jim Moriarty vs. Tom Sawyer, Portland, Me.

FAST HORSES IN FINAL MATINEE

The final matinee of the Metropolitan Driving Club's Spring and Summer series, which will be raced at the Charles River Speedway to-morrow, will be of more than usual interest, because in both the trotting and pacing contests the horses that are competing for the cups are more closely bunched than they have been at any of the club's previous series of races.

In the point cup for pacers three horses are running out in front, with twenty-seven points each to their credit. Right behind them there is a bunch of side-wheelers, any-one of which has a chance to win. The time and speedcups for pacers are also in doubt, with Edwin S., Billy F., Tony D. and Thistle still in the running.

Four Closely Matched.

The contest for the point cup for trotters is still more of a problem than is that for the pacers. Four trotters come up to the final race with a credit of twenty-eight points, with a big bunch close behind them. The speedcup looks to be as good as won by Chauncey Sears's trotter Chase, 2:07¼, whose half in 1:00¼ should be beyond the ability of any of the trotters that are to start.

The cup for the trotter making the fastest average in a winning race lies between W. J. McDonald's Dodie K., W. J. Furbush's Louise G. and Hawkins.

The Horses Entered.

Following are the horses entered for Tuesday's matinee:

CLASS A, Trotting—Major Dillard, Enchantress, Star King, Baroness Huguenot.
CLASS B, Pacing—Thistle, Chester Boy, Blue Light.
CLASS C, Trotting—B. R. C., Austin, Black Harry.
CLASS D, Pacing—Tony D., Edwin S., Billy F., Leanna.
CLASS E, Trotting—Wake Forrest, George Schofield, Tilly Cline, Major Greer.
CLASS F, Pacing—Laberta, Claberta, Helgamita.
CLASS G, Trotting—Louise G., Dodie K.
CLASS H, Trotting—Fire Fly, Cinnamon Girl, Glenold.
CLASS I, Pacing—Phoebon W., Lanter, Dean Swift, Emily, Prince Medium.
CLASS J, Trotting—Geiger, Goodspeed, Hawkins, Octavia.
CLASS K, Trotting—Alice F., Dandy Jim, Alclay H., Col. Mosby.
CLASS L, Pacing—Elmwood, Stanford, Lady Pinewood, Delma Dean.

CRITERION A. A. IS CRACK BALL TEAM

Teh fast Criterion A. A. of Roxbury have every reason to be proud of their record for the present season. They have met and defeated some of the fastest teams in the state. Among the teams defeated are the Aspinwalls of Brookline, Riverdales, Milton A. A. Royels of Brighton and the Romar A. C. of Roxbury. The one team to defeat them was the Dorchester A.A. and the Roxbury boys are confident that the shoe will be on the other foot the next time they clash.

The infield is composed of such fast men as Flynn on 1st, Rooly of M. A. H. S. on 2nd, Moody of English at s. s. and Gilmore of Latin at 3rd. The pitching staff is well taken care of by four of the best young twirlers around Boston. They are O'Neil the old Institute twirler, Churchward the old B. L. S. southpaw, Baughman of M. A. H.S. and Steele of the old Madisons. The outfield is covered by Witham of last years team O'Day of English and Maxwell of the old Corinthians. Kennedy does the receiving.

Teams wishing to arrange games will write to Charles Moody, 8 Wellington street, Boston, Mass.

BOSTON COLLEGE TO HOLD MEET SATURDAY

The open amateur track meet of Boston College, which was postponed from last Saturday will be held June 25, which is next Saturday, at the new field at Chestntu Hill. Electric lights will be installed and the meet will be a novel one and about the first one held under thoes conditions by the college. There are 150 athletes already entered in the lists.

JERRY M. WINNER OF RICH STEEPLECHASE

PARIS, June 20.—The Grand Steeplechase de Paris, which was run over the Auteil course, was won by C. G. Assheton-Smith's Jerry M.; E. Veil Pichard's Saint Amour was second and Gaston Dreyfus's Sapientia third. The Grand Steeplechase is over a course of a little more than four miles, and the value of the stake today was $28,930.

AGRICULTURALS WIN RIFLE SHOOT TITLE

WASHINGTON, June 20.—By a score of 782 the Massachusetts Agricultural College won the fifth annual contest for the rifle shooting championship of universities and colleges on the District National Guard range here.

NO TRACK CAPTAIN

A track captain has not been chosen at Michigan yet and it looks as if there will be a contest for the place between Horner and Craig. The Wolverines made a fine showing this year at the intercollegiates, scoring a total of twenty points.

STRAIGHT TIPS FOR SPORT FANS

OUT IN DORCHESTER THEY ARE hoping that "Matt" McHale will get a chance for a try-out on the club for the Red Sox in the coming home series. Martin J. McHale hails from Stoneham originally, and when he went to the University of Maine he made the hit of the college by pitching that institution into the Pine Tree State championship. He also filled the box for Pittsfield two Summers and made good. He is one of the recent acquisitions of the Red Sox, but has not yet had a chance. McHale has scores of relatives and hundreds of friends in Dorchester who want to see him tried out at the Huntington avenue grounds. He is chock full of confidence that he will make good. The Stoneham twirler is a young giant, standing 5 feet 11 inches and weighing 172 pounds.

"IF THE BIG FIGHT IS HELD IN Goldfield I don't believe it will be fought on the level," said a well known fight promoter in this city who has been out that way and knows the country. "Reno is the place to hold the heavyweight championship battle if it is to take place in Nevada," he added.

THE SWITCH FROM FRISCO TO THE mining district has caused a lot of worry among the directors of parties in the East, and the plans made will have to be changed to meet new conditions. Just where all the crowd will hang out if the fight is settled in Nevada is a mystery. Tenting on the old camp ground will be one method of living when the travelers get out there.

Straight Tips—Please publish the names of some of the bicycle clubs in Boston and its suburbs. H. C. S.
New Bedford.

There are few organized clubs now in existence. Not like the old days before the automobile became so popular, but there are a lot of individual riders who will read this and send you their addresses for the ten-mile race to be held in your town on July 4.

Straight Tips—To settle a bet and a heated argument, please state how many times James J. Jeffries has fought and who were the men he fought draws with. Also if he ever had a decision rendered against him.
Boston. J. J. McLAUGHLIN.

Haven't got the space to give Jeffries' list of fights here, but you can get it in any record book. Jeffries has always taken a pride in the fact that he was the undefeated heavyweight champion.

Straight Tips—If a man on first base is hit by his own batted ball? Is a bunt foul on the last strike out? What is the fall away slide?
Fairfield, Me. WOULD BE FAN.

If ball is fair, batter is out on being hit by own batted ball. A foul bunt on the third strike puts the batter out. You will have to see Johnny Evers of the Chicago Cubs slide to second to get a good idea of the fall away slide. It's a trick to fool the baseman in touching the base runner.

Straight Tips—A makes a bet with B that Jim Jeffries is taller than Corbett, and there is not over three-quarters of an inch difference in their heights. Who wins?
Brockton. DON E. YORK.

According to all the experts Jeffries has it on Corbett by half an inch.

Straight Tips—If a man on first base is injured and another man runs for him, can the first man continue in the game? This is to settle a bet.
Boston. A. BORNSTEIN.

If the captain of the opposing team agrees to let the injured man have a base runner he may remain in the game.

Straight Tips—Please tell me how many teams have made twenty-one hits in the American League and which were the teams. How many times did Nelson and Wolgast meet and where?
Meriden, Ct. FRANK PETRILLO.

It's such a long time since we heard of a big league team making so many bingles will have to pass up that first one. Nelson and Wolgast met twice. They fought a ten-round decision bout at Los Angeles last July, and Wolgast won the lightweight title from the Battler in Frisco last February.

Straight Tips—A says that Jeffries is richer than Johnson. B says no. How about it?
East Boston. A. PENTA.

Whiel the two fighters are not publishing their financial standing, it is generally believed that Jeffries has the colored fighter beaten a few blocks in the size of his bank account.

CORNELL CREW IN TIME TRIAL

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 20.—For a few days yet there will probably be a little let up on the stream by the crews here. Attention will be devoted to racing starts, though some hard trials are yet on the schedule. Courtney will send the Ithaca oarsmen over the course for time early this week. This will be the only time trial the Red and White boys have had.

EASON NAMED NEW UMPIRE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 20.—Mal Eason, former Eastern League umpire and working at present in the Southern Association, has been appointed to umpire in the National League, according to announcement here, Southern League President Kavanaugh having offered Eason's vacant berth to Bill Hart, old-time Pittsburg pitcher, who has been pitching in the Southern League for several years, being a member of the Chattanooga (Tenn.) team now.

Disillusionment of the Honeymoon

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

No. 2—The Tenth Day

"BY JOVE, Helen, there's Dick Hemstead and Billy Moore!" As two men in automobile garb came up the walk toward the hotel.

He had been sitting beside her on the veranda, listlessly turning over some magazines, but now he sprang up and hurried eagerly to meet the two men.

"Warren Curtis—by all that's good!"

The greeting was most cordial. She could hear only a word now and then, but enough to gather that they had been up in Canada, looking at some timber, and were now motoring back along the Maine coast. Their machine had broken down a few miles above, and they had come on here for dinner while their man fixed it up.

Helen waited, her eyes on her book, for him to bring them up to meet her. She had always thrilled at the thought of being introduced to his friends as "my wife—Mrs. Curtis." She often pictured with what pride and tenderness he would present her. And here was the first opportunity; she awaited it with a beating heart.

She was pleasantly conscious of her pretty gown and its effect against the green rustic chair. She gave several deft touches to her hair.

But why didn't they come? They were still standing on the steps. Warren's back was toward her, and the men had given only a casual glance in her direction. Over half an hour had passed and they were still talking about the roads, and the road houses along the route.

They Failed to Glance at Her

"Well, we'll have to get a room and wash up before dinner."

And then, without even glancing toward her, they all went into the office.

In a few moments Warren reappeared. "Well, I call that luck! And I've persuaded them to stay over to-morrow and drive up to Cove Bluff."

"But you didn't introduce them, Warren—it was most embarrassing," trying to keep the quiver out of her voice.

"Didn't I?" carelessly. "Oh, that's all right. You'll meet them at dinner."

And she had thought it would mean as much to him as to her. This had been his first opportunity to introduce her as his wife—and he had not even thought of it!

She made no further comment, and tried to seem interested in some incidents he was telling her of the Summer Hemstead and he was camped in the White Mountains.

When they went into dinner, he asked the head waiter for a table for four. And a few minutes later the two men entered. He motioned to them. "You're to dine with us this evening. Ah—Mrs. Curtis—Mr. Hempstead—Mr Moore."

She bowed stiffly. How different from the introduction she had imagined. Instead of the pride and tenderness, his voice and manner were quite matter-of-fact.

After dinner they went out on the veranda. Warren placed a chair for her.

"Do you object to smoking, Mrs. Curtis?" Mr. Hemstead asked formally.

"Not at all," stiffly.

They all lit cigars and became again absorbed in a discussion of the game laws.

"I'm afraid this is not very interesting to Mrs. Curtis," Mr. Moore ventured finally.

"Oh, yes, it is quite interesting, only it is growing rather chilly out here—if you'll excuse me I think I'll go upstairs."

"Why, yes, Helen—perhaps you'd better," Warren assented quickly. "I'll not be long."

The three men rose. She said "good-night," coldly, and hurried upstairs.

Alone in her room, for a long time, she stood by the window, looking out into the night. The hot blood burned in her cheeks.

The Old Page in the Dairy

Then she went over to her desk and took out her diary. She turned back through it slowly. She knew that when she found the entry for which she was looking, it would only hurt her more. And yet she wanted to find it. There it was—not quite four months ago:

> March 29th—To-day Warren took me to the Lawyer's Club for luncheon. It was all very wonderful! If I didn't love him for anything else, I would love him for the way he introduces me to his friends—it is with so much pride and deference, and as though he expected them to see in me all that he does. I said I was sure every one would know we were engaged, just by the tone of his voice and the way he looked at me.
>
> "And I want them to!" He laughed tenderly. "How I will love to introduce you as 'my wife.' I will stop every one I ever knew, just for the pleasure of saying, 'I want you to meet my wife, Mrs. Curtis.' And if they don't seem properly impressed—but they will! No one could help being impressed with you, sweetheart. The trouble will be to keep them all from falling in love with you."

She closed the book as Warren entered the room.

"Up yet? I thought you'd be in bed. Why, they want to drive up to Cove Bluff early in the morning—start about 8 o'clock. I thought that would be too early for you, and then it's a pretty long trip. And we'll want to get out and tramp through the woods some, so I thought you'd rather not go."

"No, I wouldn't care to go." Her voice was colorless.

"You're"—he was holding his chin in the air, struggling to undo his collar—"you're not going to write any more to-night, are you? I don't think I can sleep with that light."

She locked her diary away in her trunk. "No, I'm not going to write any to-night."

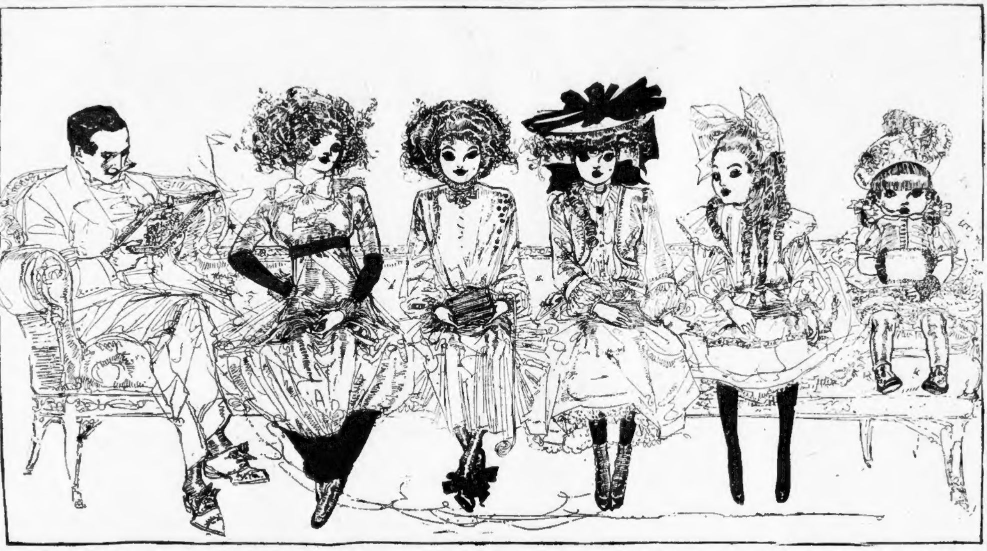
"What a Difference Just a Few Years Make"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner



"You, Bachelor, about to become a Benedict, get hold of all the pics of the girl you love back from now, when she's a gorgeous creature in black velvet shoes and skirt gathered in at the ankles to when she was a little kid—through all the changing fashion of twenty years."

A TALL, quizzical, delightful Englishman I know trotted out one day two pictures of the little wife of his.

One was a big sepia-tinted portrait, set into a heavy silver frame, of a fluffy-haired woman-face with a pair of elfish black eyes, a slim neck, two big pearls in her ears and her pale blonde hair twisted in the latest flat folds, scalloped over the eyes and held by monster amber pins.

The other was a faded little picture with the label of a country town stamped over every square inch of it and the coat-of-arms of a country photographer blazoned in one corner. It was rubbed up a pretty good deal—and the face in it was an atom of a baby girl, her hands in a scream of a muff, a velvet jacket buttoned tight over her little tummy, a round hat over one eye, her pale thistle-down hair banged to her eyelashes, a bashful little feather nodding above the round little hat and mitts (open-work mitts) on her fat hands—and the only thing in the world that was like the sepia-tinted, silver-set gem of a woman was the elfish, wide, black eyes.

The Englishman held it to the fire-light and his mouth softened into an amused, tender grin. "Jove, what a difference just a few years make!" says he.

And that made me think, you jolly old bachelor—who are about to change your skin into that of a Benedict, get hold of all the pics of the girl you love back from now when she's a dashing creature in black velvet shoes and skirt gathered in at the ankles to when she was a little kid in mitts and mother-hubbard, a pink cambric parasol and big sleeves, through all the stages of Gibson shirt waists and the all-around Pompadour, the Florodora hat and the Eton Jacket, the little old frocks with the capes on the shoulders and the curls down her back, through all the fashions of twenty years. Believe me, who remember my own progress through all these same fashions, it'll be great fun! For you'll see some terrible and awful contrivances. And you'll love HER harder than ever.

NELL BRINKLEY.

THE FORTUNE HUNTER

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyrighted, 1910, by Winchell Smith and Louis Joseph Vance

I HAVE always thought that her affection for her father was less filial than maternal. He seemed such a child, she—so very old! She mothered him; it was her only joy to care for him. Her care was constant, unfailing, omniscient. In return she got only his love.

But it was almost enough—almost, not quite, dearly as she prized it. There were other things a girl should have—indeed, must have, if her life were to be rounded out in fulness.

And these, she understood, were forever denied her; apples of Paradise growing in her sight, heartrending in their loveliness so far beyond her reach.

Sighing, she went to work. In work only could she forget. * * * The soda glasses needed cleaning, and the syrup jars replenishing (for the new order of syrups had come in the previous evening).

Tracey Again Has News

After a time, to a tune of pounding feet, Tracey Tanner pranced into the shop with all the graceful abandon of a young elephant feeling his oats. His face was fairly scarlet from exertion and his eyes bulging with a sense of importance. The girl looked up without interest, nodding slightly in response to his breathless: "Lo, Betty."

"Father's gone out," she said, holding a glass to the light, suspicious of the lint from her dish towel.

"I know—seen him down the street." The boy halted at the counter, producing a handful of square envelopes. "Note for you from the Lockwoods, Betty," he panted. "Josie sat me to bring it round."

Betty put down her glass in consternation. "From Lockwoods?"

"Uh-huh." Tracey offered it, but she witheld her hand, dubious.

"For me, Tracey?"

"Uh-huh. It's an invitation. I got four more to take." He thrust it into her reluctant fingers. "Got five, really, but one of 'em's for me."

"An invitation, Tracey!"

"Yeh. Hope you have a good time when it comes off." Already he was bouncing toward the door. "Goo'-by."

"But what is it, Tracey?"

"Aw, it tells in the invitation. S'long."

"From the Lockwoods!" she whispered.

Suddenly she tore it open, her hands unsteady with nervousness.

Betty Invited to the Fete.

The envelope contained a square of heavy cardboard of a creamy tint with scalloped edges touched with gold. On the face of the card a round and formless hand had traced with evident pains the information:

> Miss Josephine Mae Lockwood requests the pleasure of your company at a lawn fete and dance, to be held at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lockwood, Saturday, July 15, at 8 p. m. R. S. V. P.

The envelope fluttered to the floor while the card was crushed between the girl's hands. For a moment her face was transfigured with delight, her eyes blank with rapturous visions of the joys of that promised night.

"Oh!—it 'ud be grand!—"

Then suddenly the light faded. Her eyes clouded, her face settled into its discontented lines. She stuffed the card heedlessly into the pocket of her dingy apron, and took up another glass.

"But I can't go; I've got nothin' to wear——"

CHAPTER XI.

Blinky Lockwood

SHE was scrubbing blindly at the same glass when a quarter of an hour later Blinky Lockwood strode into the store his right eye twitching more violently than usual, as it always does in his phases of mental disturbance—as when, for instance, he fears he's coming to lose a dollar.

Lockwood is that type of man who was born to grow rich. He inherited a farm or two in the vicinity of Radville and the one over Westerly way, to which I have referred, and * * * well, we've a homely paraphrase of a noted aphorism in Radville: "Them as has, gits."

Lockwood had, to begin with, and he made it his business to get; and, as is generally the case in this unbalanced world of ours, things came to him to which he had never aspired. Fortune favored him because he had no need of her favors; the discovery of coal under his Westerly acres was wholly adventitious, but it made him far and away the richest man in Radville—with the possible exception of old Colonel Bohun's traditional millions.

In person he is as beautiful as a snake fence, as alluring as a stone wall. Something over six feet in height, he walks with a stoop (one hand always in a trousers pocket, jingling silver) that materially detracts from his stature.

His face, like his figure, is gaunt and lanky, his nose an emaciated beak; his mouth illustrates his attitude toward property—is a trap from which nothing of value ever escapes; his eyes are small and hard and set close together under lowering brows. He's grizzled, with hair not actually white, but gray as the iron from which his heart was fashioned.

Aside from these characteristics his principal peculiarity is a nervous twitching of the right eye which has earned him his sobriquet of Blinky. Legrand Gunn said he contracted the affliction through squinting at the silver dollar to make sure none of its milling had been worn off. * * * I have never known the man to wear anything but a rusty old frock coat, black, of course, and black and shiny broadcloth trousers, with a hat that has always a coating of dust so thick that it seems a mottled grey.

He grunts his words, a grunt to each. He grunted at Betty when he saw her.

"Where's your father?"

She put down her glass and dish-rag. "I don't know sir."

"Don't know, eh?" he asked in an indescribably offensive tone.

"I think he went to the bank to see you."

"Oh, he did, eh? Did he have anything for me?"

The girl looked up another glass. "I don't know, sir," she said wearily. "I'm afraid not."

"Well, if he didn't there's no use seein' me. It won't do him any good."

"I guess he knows that," she returned with a little flash of spirit.

Lockwood looked her up and down as if he had never seen her before, then summarized his resentful impression of her attitude in an open sneer. "Does, eh? Well, that's a good thing; saves talk."

She contained herself, saying nothing. He glared around the place, remarking the improvements.

"You don't do no business here, not to speak of, do ye?"

"No," she admitted without interest, "not to speak of it."

"Then what's the good of all this foolishness, fixing up?"

"I don't know."

"Costs money don't it?"

"I guess so."

"And that money belongs to me."

"It's Mr. Duncan's doing. Father ain't paying for it. He can't."

"What's he doin', then? Sittin' round foolin' with his inventions, ain't he?"

"Yes."

"What's he inventin' now?"

"I don't know much about it." She pointed to the model beneath the window. "That's the last thing, I guess."

Blinky snorted and stamped over to the window, stooping to peer at the machine. "What's the good of that?" he demanded, disdainfully; and without waiting for her response went on nagging. "Foolishness! That's what it is. Why don't you tell him not to waste his time this way?"

"Because he likes it," said Betty hopelessly. "It's the only thing that makes life worth while to him. So I let him alone."

"What difference does that make? It don' bring him in nothin', does it?"

"No."

"Nor do any good?"

"No."

"No, siree, it don't. He'd oughter stop it. What does he do with them things when he gets 'em finished?"

"Patents them."

"And then what?"

"Nothing' that I know of."

"That's it; nothing—nor ever will. Well, he's been getting money from me for those patents—I thought at fust there might be somethin' in 'em—but he won't any more. I'd oughter had more sense."

A little color spotted the girl's sallow cheeks. "He'd never ha' got money from you if he hadn't thought he could pay it back," she told Blinky hotly.

"No, nor if I hadn't thought he could——"

She interjected a significant "Huh!" He broke off abruptly, pale with anger.

"Well, I want to see him, and I want to see him before noon," he snapped. "I'm goin' over to the bank, an' if he knows what's good for him he'll come there pretty darn quick."

"I'll try to find him for you; he must be somewhere round," she offered.

"Well, you better. I ain't got much patience to-day."

He swung on one heel and slouched out, as Betty turned to go upstairs. Presently she reappeared pinning on her sad little hat, and left the store.

It was upward of an hour before she returned, walking quickly and very erect, with her head up and shoulders back, her eyes suspiciously bright, the spots of color in her cheeks blazing scarlet, her mouth set and hard, the little work-worn hands at her sides clenched tightly as if for self-control.

Even old Sam, who had returned from the depot after missing Blinky at the bank—even he, blind as he ordinarily was, saw instantly that something was wrong with the child.

"Why, Betty!" he cried in solicitude as she flung into the store—"Betty, dear, what's the matter?"

For an instant she seemed speechless. Then she tore the hat from her head and cast it regardlessly upon the counter. "Father!" she cried. "Father!"—and gulped to down her emotion. "Can you get me some money?"

"Money? Why, Betty, what?"

Her foot came down on the floor impatiently. "Can you get me some money?" she repeated in a breath.

"Well—er—how much, Betty?" He tried to touch her, to take her in his arms, but she moved away, her sorry little figure quivering from head to feet.

"Enough," she said, half sobbing—enough to buy a dress—a nice dress—a dress that will surprise folks——"

"But tell me what the matter is, Betty. Wanting a dress would never upset you like this."

She whipped the cracked and crumpled card from her pocket and pushed it into his hand. "Look at that!" she bade him, and turned away, struggling with all her might to keep back the tears.

He read, his old face softening. "Josie Lockwood's party, eh? And she's sent you an invitation. Well, that was kind of her, very kind."

She swung upon him in a fury. "No, it was not kind. It was mean. . . . It was mean!"

"Oh, Betty," he begged in consternation, "don't say that. I'm sure——"

"Oh, you don't know. . . . I heard the girls talking in the postoffice—Angie Tuthill and Mame Garrison and Bessie Gabriel. I was round by the boxes where they couldn't see me, but I could hear them, and they were laughing because I was invited. They said the reason Josie did it was because she knew I didn't have anything to wear, and she wanted to hear what excuse I'd make for not going. Ah, I heard them!"

"Oh, but Betty, Betty," he pleaded; "don't you mind what they say. Don't——"

"But I do mind; I can't help mindin'. They're mean." She paused, her features hardening. "I'm going to that party," she declared tensely; "I'm going to that party and—and I'm goin' to have a dress to go in, too! I don't care what I do—I'm goin' to have that dress!"

Sam would have scolded her as best he might, but she would neither look nor come near him.

"We'll see," he said gently. "We'll see. I'll try——"

She turned on his, exasperated beyond thought. "That only means you can't help me!"

"Have you got any money now?"

He hung his head to avoid her blazing eyes. "Well, no—not at present, but here's this new stock and——"

"That doesn't mean anything, and you know it. You owe that note to Mr. Lockwood, don't you? And you can't pay it?"

"Not to-day, Betty, but he'll give me a little more time, I'm sure. He's kind, very kind."

"You don't know him. He's as mean—as mean as dirt—as mean as Josie."

"Betty!"

"Then if you did get any money you'd have to give it to him, wouldn't you?"

"Yes, but—I'm sure—I think it'll come all right."

"Ah, what's the use of talkin' that way? What's the use of talkin' at all? I know you can't do anything for me, and so do you!"

Sam had dropped into his chair, unable to stand before this storm; he stared now, mute with amazement, at this child who had so long, so uncomplainingly, shared his poverty and privations, grown suddenly to the stature of a woman—and a tormented, passionate woman, stung to the quick by the injustice of her lot.

He put out a hand in a feeble gesture of placation, but she brushed it away as she bent toward him, speaking so quickly that her words tumbled and ran into one another.

"I can't understand it!" she raged. "Why is it that I have to be more shabby than any other girl in town? Why is it that the others have all the fun and I all the drudgery? Why is it that I can't ever go anywhere with the boys and girls and laugh and and have a good time like the rest do?"

Sam bent his head to the blast. In his lap his hands worked nervously. But he could not answer her.

"It ain't that I mind the cookin' and doin' the housework and—all the rest—but—why is it you can never give me anything at all? Why must it be that every one looks down on us and sneers and laughs at us? Why is it that half the time we haven't got enough to eat?

(To Be Continued To-morrow.)

FOR THE ICE CREAM FREEZER

ABOUT this time of year everybody gets out the ice cream freezer and begins to experiment. Probably nine out of ten stick to the old reliable vanilla ice cream, but there are scores of most attractive fruit, ice cream and mousse recipes, which, if followed carefully, cannot help but appeal to one on a Summer day.

Perhaps, too, a few suggestions in the art of freezing may not be amiss here.

The ice should be chopped very fine and thoroughly mixed with coarse salt before being placed in the freezer. Do not put it in layers. For mixing the ice and salt in a wooden box will be found convenient. The mixture should consist of three parts of ice and one part salt. Best results are obtained by packing the ice and salt around the can, even with the can top, before placing the mixture to be frozen in the freezer can. After pouring the mixture in the can, put the can-cover in place and pack the ice and salt up around the gear-frame, covering the can completely. Be sure that the drip hole on the side of the tub is always kept open; this allows for overflow from the melting ice.

Here are twelve choice recipes.

"MOTHER'S BEST" VANILLA ICE CREAM.

One quart light cream, ½ pint milk, two fresh eggs thoroughly beaten, two cups granulated sugar, dessert-spoonful vanilla. Have the ice very fine, using ¼ part very coarse salt.

MILK SHERBET.

One quart of milk, two and one-half cups sugar, juice of three lemons. Dissolve the sugar in milk and partly freeze before adding lemons. Serving with preserved or crushed fruits adds to the deliciousness.

CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM.

One quart cream, one pint of milk, two cups sugar, two eggs beaten light, five tablespoonfuls grated chocolate rubbed smooth in a little milk. Heat the milk to near boiling, pour in slowly beaten eggs and sugar, then chocolate. Cook until it thickens, stirring constantly. Cool, beat in the cream, and freeze.

LEMON ICE CREAM.

Two quarts milk, one quart cream, three cups sugar, three eggs, one-quarter box gelatine, juice of two lemons and one orange, grated rind of 3 lemons. Mix sugar, juice and rind of lemons and orange juice, and set aside; soak gelatine in one-half pint of milk, scald milk and cream and pour over gelatine till dissolved. When cold partly freeze, then add lemon juice and sugar, and eggs beaten separately; turn the crank rapidly and freeze.

PEACH ICE CREAM

One quart cream, 1 pint milk, 2 cup sugar, whites of 2 eggs, 1 dozen ripe peaches. Pare and mash the peaches, and sugar, and let it stand; add milk and cream, and just before freezing, the beaten whites.

COFFEE ICE CREAM

One quart milk, 1 pint cream, 1 pint very strong coffee, 2 cups sugar, or enough to make mixture very sweet, 2 eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately. Freeze as for vanilla ice cream.

FRUIT COMBINATION.

Three lemons, three oranges, three bananas, one-half can of peaches, three cups sugar, three cups water. Strain peaches and bananas through sieve, squeeze the oranges and lemons and strain; add sugar and water, and when dissolved freeze. A pint of cream may be added before freezing but it is delightful without.

FROZEN PEACHES.

One quart can of peaches mashed through a sieve, one pint of cream, two eggs well beaten, two quarts milk, sugar to taste. Put in freezer and freeze same as you would for ice cream.

PINEAPPLE WATER ICE.

Two large yellow pineapples, one and one-half pounds of sugar, one quart of water, juice of two lemons. Pare the pineapples, grate them and add the juice of the lemons. Boil the sugar and water together for five minutes. When cold add the pineapples and strain through a fine sieve. Turn into freezer and freeze as for water ice.

APRICOT PUDDING.

One quart cream, yolks of four eggs, one and one-half cups sugar, twelve apricots or peaches. Scald the cream, add well-beaten sugar and eggs; when cold freeze. When nearly frozen, add the fruit, which should be pared and cut in small pieces. Freeze hard.

FROZEN BANANAS.

One dozen bananas, 1 pound sugar, 1 pint cream, 2 oranges. Boil water and sugar together 5 minutes, strain, and when cool, add the bananas (which should be mashed) and the orange juice. Freeze, turning slowly. Whip the cream and add to the frozen mixture.

FROZEN STRAWBERRIES

One quart strawberries, juice of 2 lemons, 1 pound sugar, 1 quart water. Mix berries, lemon juice and sugar, and let it stand one hour. Mash the berries thoroughly, then add water and freeze. Freeze raspberries in the same way.

TO-DAY'S BEST STORY

IT is told that a certain lady of a Western Kansas town desired to show kindness to the captain of the local State militia company, and wrote the following invitation: "Mrs. ——— requests the pleasure of Captain ———'s company at a reception on Friday evening."

A prompt reply came: "With the exception of three men, who are sick with measles, Captain ———'s company accepts your kind invitation and will come with pleasure to your reception Friday evening."

Six Bad Husbands and Six Unhappy Wives

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

No. 5—The "Intellectual" Wife

THE fifth bad husband had been the merriest and jolliest young man in all the neighborhood, where he found his wife. He was twenty-nine years old, when he married; and his wife was twenty-two. She was very bright, and considered a leader in her social circle.

The young man was so witty and so full of fun that he had always been popular with girls and, indeed, with women of all ages. Old ladies liked him; he made them laugh and forget their sorrows. Young matrons liked him; he made them forget they were not girls. And spinsters liked him, for he seemed to be just as happy with them as with young girls.

Such a fund of good spirits opened the door of every circle to him. No one analyzed him mentally, to see whether he was possessed of any profound learning under the surface brightness and mirthfulness; he was such good company that he carried people along with him and made life seem worth while wherever he was.

His wife had found him delightful as a lover; and, while she did not possess a keen sense of humor, she was young and care-free, and enjoyed the same amusements, and the two seemed very congenial.

It Looked Like a Happy Match

The young man possessed a fair competence and good business abilities, and was popular with his associates, and there was nothing to hinder their marriage from proving a happy one, it seemed in the beginning.

After a few years had passed the wife developed intellectual tastes and took up a course of study. The husband was proud of her and encouraged her in her pursuits. He was very much occupied with business, and his wealth was on the increase. Two children had blessed the union and he was very devoted to them.

He had never been a church-going man, but had helped charities and benevolent institutions, and he believed in God and immortality.

Meanwhile he lived in full enjoyment of all the things of earth. He liked a good meal, well cooked and served. He liked a good cigar. He enjoyed good company and music and cards and dancing and fun and life. He had never sought unworthy friends, or low associates of either sex. But he wanted people about him who were optimistic, and who liked a good laugh, and he did not care for the very serious side of life.

He never read problem novels, or went to see problem plays, and he delighted in comic opera and humorous literature. For several years his wife had been his comrade in all these things. But as she developed intellectually, and as she studied into the metaphysical thought of the world, she seemed to be bored by the things which had once given her pleasure.

It did not occur to her that she could keep in touch with the human side of life, and with her husband's tastes, and still grow out into larger ideals.

She said one could not serve God and Mammon; or obey two masters. And she felt she must obey the call of her soul. She forgot that the call of love is also the call of the soul.

So her husband began to go to the comic opera and the social dance alone or with a man friend. And he began to find it difficult to converse with his wife on any subject of mutual interest. He felt she was greatly his superior, and he was ofttimes very lonely.

He did not give vent to many spontaneous witticisms as of old, and he felt he was aging for the first time.

A Million Miles Away from Him

His wife talked of matters, and books, and theories of life which seemed a million miles away from his sphere of thought.

As time passed she grew more and more spiritual, and she tried to make him realize that he was on a very carnal plane and that his whole understanding of life was wrong.

After two years, the bad husband developed. He went where he found pleasure, mirth, good food, good company. He allowed his wife to go her way; he went his.

But they met at the divorce court.

There was no trouble about her obtaining the divorce. Statutory grounds were given and proved. The children were given to the wife. The woman who had won him away from his wife, according to public comment, was a wholly inferior person.

Then it was remarked that his wife was always quite his superior; and that he had, by the natural law of the world, gone down to his own level. His wife received the sympathy of the whole community; and he was understood to be one of those bad men who are incapable of appreciating a good woman.

All for Eight Per

ABSOLUTE quiet and rest,
Ozone in every soft breeze,
Bountiful board of the best,
Spreading, umbrageous trees,
Fields of an emerald green—
Here be attractions unique!
Offered, as lately I've seen,
All for eight dollars per week.

Milk, from the cows newly drawn,
Luscious, delectable fruit,
Croquet (a fine, level lawn),
Tennis and golfing to boot,
Streams that are swarming with fish,
Hardly a fly, so to speak,
All one could possibly wish,
Just for eight dollars per week.

Who for an Eden would sigh,
Or for a Land of Cockaigne?
Dappledale lays over my
Costliest castles in Spain.
Here, on this newspaper page,
Is the resort that I seek;
I'll just write down and engage
Board at eight dollars per week.

Another Brilliant Week of Weddings Keeps Boston Society Set on the Alert

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT

The coming week will be quite as brilliant as far as important weddings are concerned as was the past, the initial one being that on Tuesday of pretty Julia Coolidge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., and Henry Howe Richards, which takes place at King's Chapel, and closes with that on Saturday of Miss Ruth Winsor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Winsor of Walnut street, Brookline, and Hugh Minturn, son of Mrs. R. B. Minturn of New York.

The younger set is looking forward with keenest anticipation to the latter event, for Miss Winsor is one of the most popular girls of the Vincent club set.

The ceremony is to take place in the First Parish church, Brookline, at 4 p. m. and will be followed by a large reception at the home of the bride's parents. Miss Winsor has chosen for her attendants Miss Adelaide Jackson, former president of the Vincent club, Miss Louise R. Coolidge of Beacon street and Miss Barbara Burr of Marlboro, both members of the same exclusive organization.

Charles E. Parkins of Burlington, Iowa, Harvard '01, formerly of Commonwealth avenue will be the best man, and the ushers will be E. Gerry Chadwick of New York, formerly of Boston, Wendell Blagden, Theodore Douglas Robinson, George Paten Snow and Amos Pinchot, all of New York; Edward Bowditch, Jr, of Albany, who was an usher at the Wendell-Higginson wedding on Saturday, and Frederick Pruyn, also of Albany; Gordon Fairchild, James Jackson, E. V. R. Thayer, Alfred Winsor, Jr., Kennard Winsor, brother of the bride-elect and Robert Winsor, Jr., all of Boston.

* * *

Another wedding on Saturday of especial interest to Brookline will be that of Miss Marion Gregory and Wallace Dunbar Dexter, Jr., Harvard '07. It will take place in the First Parish church, Framingham, at 5 p. m. Mr. Dexter is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Dexter of Dean Road of Brookline, and a brother of Wilson, Allan and Franklin Dexter and the Misses Margaret and Janet Dexter.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Bowditch Potter of New York are about arriving on the other side, where they are to spend several weeks in travelling through Europe. Mrs. Potter was formerly Mary Sargent of Boston, and has left her young son in charge of her parents, Professor and Mrs. Charles S. Sargent of "Holm Lea," Brookline, who are at Marblehead for the Summer.

* * *

Mr. Guy Lowell, son-in-law of Professor and Mrs. Sargent, and Mrs. Lowell have taken the Cole cottage at Marblehead for the season. Mr. Lowell is having a new sonder boat built which he expects to enter in all the sonder races off the North Shore this season. Mr. Lowell is a member of the Eastern Yacht Club and is up for membership in the Corinthian Yacht Club.

* * *

Miss Alice Sargent's boat, "The Wayfarer," arrived at Marblehead last week. Miss Sargent is one of the ablest yachtswomen of the North Shore and last Summer took part in several of the races.

* * *

Debutante festivities at this season of the year are rather the rule than the exception, but the reception which Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brewer (Helen Slocum) gave Saturday afternoon in honor of their at their suburban country home on attractive young daughter, Miss Madeline T. Brewer, was one of the most delightful events of the year.

* * *

Miss Clara Winthrop, who returned recently from Europe, has joined her mother, Mrs. Robert C. Winthrop, at their Manchester Summer home in Jersey lane. Miss Winthrop and Miss Mary Curtis sailed together the last of January for the Mediterranean, and while on the other side spent most of their time as the guests of Miss Winthrop's brother, Robert Mason Winthrop, at the United States legation in Athens.

* * *

The Misses Mary and Frances Bartlett of the North Shore colony have gone abroad for the Summer and will visit Norway and Sweden to see the midnight sun and will also be in Italy, France and Germany. On their return trip they will take in England and expect to arrive in Boston in November.

* * *

Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, who is to spend the Summer abroad, will return early in September and will occupy her new estate, "Edgewater," on West street, Beverly, until late in the Autumn. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter, her son and daughter-in-law, will be her guests during the Autumn.

* * *

The Hasty Pudding Club has issued especially handsome invitations this year for its annual Class Day spread, to be given at noon at the clubhouse. Among the hosts this year are Francis Hathaway Burrage, Stanley Cobb, Frederick Reed Estabrook, James Dwight Foot, Jr., Stanley Perkins Hall, Jr., Frank Rollins Maxwell, Jr., Thomas Jefferson Newbold, Henry Barber Richardson, John Tyler, John Blake E. Wheeler, Henry Lawrence Whitney and Lyman Fiske Whitney.

LABOR

Plans to form a local union among the painters of Cambridge already are well under way, and officers will be elected on July 1. The union painters of that city now are working under the jurisdiction of the Boston, Somerville, Brookline and Newton locals.

That every boss barber called on to date has promised to pay the new wage scale and grant the new working-condition agreement of the Boston Barbers' Union, which goes into effect August 1, is stated by the union committee having the matter in charge.

Bill Posters and Billers' Union, No. 17, by unanimous vote has decided to participate in the C. L. U. Labor Day parade. A similar vote was taken by both Italian locals of the Building Laborers' Union.

The entire board of officers of Brewery Workers' Union No. 14 have been renominated without opposition. Election will take place July 3, at which time the question of parading Labor Day is made a special order of business.

Four additional firms are reported as having agreed to pay the new wage scale of the Tip Cart and Building Teamsters' Union during the last week. The new rate calls for an advance of $1 a week. Ten men were admitted to membership in the union at its meeting.

Full financial support for the Cloak and Shirt Makers of New York, in their contemplated strike, was voted by the Ladies' Tailors and Dressmakers' Union. Several officers of the Boston union will go to New York to speak at the mass meetings being held among the cloak and skirt makers of that city.

Election of officers by N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Freight Handlers' Union No. 70 resulted as follows: John J. Higgins, president; Cornelius Kiley, vice-president; Jeremiah L. Murray, recording secretary; Timothy Regan, financial secretary; Timothy Clanan, treasurer; Daniel J. Mahoney, inside guard; George White, conductor.

New York's Special "White Slave" Grand Jury

It Has Done Excellent Work

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

For many weeks a special grand jury in New York City, with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as foreman, has worked in connection with District Attorney Whitman, investigating crimes of the so-called "white slave dealers."

This grand jury, composed of men of ability, has sacrificed important business to the public welfare, carrying on a most tiresome, painstaking and conscientious investigation. The District Attorney and the foreman of the grand jury are especially entitled to the public thanks and to public recognition. Their work is certain to have beneficial results, not only in New York but in every large city.

It puzzles the public that Judge O'Sullivan, before whom the grand jury appeared ready to present a report, should decline—even temporarily—to accept that report and make it public.

We did not understand when this grand jury was appointed that it was appointed to investigate, and report, PROVIDED JUDGE O'SULLIVAN SHOULD APPROVE.

Our understanding and the general understanding was that this grand jury was instructed by the court, whence it derived its authority, to investigate, deliberate, AND REPORT.

There were no ifs, ands, or buts, about it.

Judge O'Sullivan declines to receive and give out this report. He postpones action for two weeks.

We do not question the depth of his legal knowledge, nor do we question his good intentions. But we should like very much indeed to be able to tell our readers WHY THERE SHOULD BE ANY DELAY IN ACCEPTING THE GRAND JURY'S REPORT.

It is conceivable that the report of the grand jury might disturb the feelings of certain New York politicians—but certainly that fact could not influence in any way Judge O'Sullivan or any other conscientious judge.

It is possible that the grand jury might talk pretty frankly about conditions apart from facts actually proved. But whatever the report may say, whether the conclusions of these grand jurymen be accurate or inaccurate—THE PEOPLE WHOM THEY REPRESENT ARE ENTITLED TO KNOW WHAT THEY BELIEVE, ALL THAT THEY HAVE TO SAY.

We do not believe that in the end Judge O'Sullivan will refuse to receive the report or to make it public. That would be too disquieting. Better the truth, however unpleasant, better even criticism that may be too severe, than suppression of the honest opinions of a capable body of men in a matter so serious.

Fortunately, regardless of Judge O'Sullivan's final action, A GREAT DEAL OF GOOD HAS ALREADY BEEN DONE BY THIS GRAND JURY INVESTIGATION. Fear has been put into the hearts of the particular class of criminals with whom the grand jury has dealt.

Those that know New York, its criminal classes and their doings, are aware that one of the worst criminal organizations ever known is to-day thoroughly disorganized and beaten down by fear.

Continued energy on the part of the Prosecuting Attorney's office, on the part of the police—and especially continued energy on the part of the newspapers—publishing facts AND PUBLISHING OPINIONS AND BELIEFS AS WELL AS FACTS, will wipe out that "white slave" shame in New York City and in other cities.

For the good work thus far accomplished, Whitman, the District Attorney, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the chairman of the grand jury, and all his fellow jurymen are entitled to public gratitude.

Young Men Are Half Savages

Boys (Exc[illegible] a Few That Are Angels, Yours, for Instance) Are Entirely Savage

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

A lot of college graduates, eager to do something striking, arrayed themselves as convicts and paraded up and down the campus "doing the lockstep." Mr. E. R. Emmons writes as follows:

> This seems to me a heartless thing for college graduates to do. Some of the poor fellows who wear the stripes are in that position because society has so arranged that fellows with better opportunities have first robbed them of their just rights.

With his comment on the young men's foolish pranks he sends a picture of the young men in their convict garb.

For young men, happy and free, to parody the sufferings, the costumes and the brutal lockstep inflicted upon convicts is, of course, a heartless thing.

But we should always remember that children are really primitive savages—ninety-nine children out of every hundred are naturally cruel, naturally untruthful—and parents that do not know that are scarcely fit to bring up children.

And young men in college, still child-like, boyish, are at least half-savage.

They don't know it, of course, but when they submit their unfortunate fellows to physical suffering at initiations, and to actual torture and even death in their "hazings," they are like the North American Indians. Indians used to hang up the young brave with a hook, stuck into the flesh in his back, lift him off the ground and whirl him around—and declare him unfit to be a warrior unless he could endure the pain without an outcry.

Our young college savages despise and declare unfit for scholastic honors the green and inexperienced boy who comes among them, and who is unable to submit tamely to physical cruelty, or still worse, to moral cruelty.

It takes the man of to-day—HE IS REALLY ONLY A HALF CIVILIZED MAN—the greater part of his lifetime to attain to anything like real civilization and real kindness. Lucky he if he does this before—or even after—his hair turns white, or falls off.

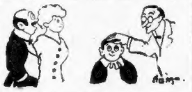
Little Bobbie

He Writes About Pa's Old College Friend

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

WELL, sed Pa, wen he calm hoam last nite, I had a queer ex-perience this afternoon. I ran into an old college frend of mine. I dident think I wud ever see him aggenn wen we left the old college, but he is right here in the city & he is cumming up to dinner.

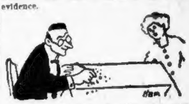
I dident know that you evver went to college, sed Ma, that is a new one on me; what college? It was a business college, sed Pa. It was thare, sed Pa, that I lerned shorthand & tiperighting, & thus laid the foundashun for the grand success that I have since been aiming to maik sum day. Oh, I see, sed Ma, I am glad you toald me. Wat time is this wunderful frend of yures going to be at the house?



Jest then in calm Pa's frend, & Pa interduced him. Ma loked him oaver kind of sharp, the way she always looks oaver Pa's frends. I was a littel late, sed Pa's frend; his naim was Herbert Frothingill. You see, he sed to Ma, I havent got a watch; I had one befoar I beegan going to business college. The business college man got it.

That doesnt matter, I am sure, sed Ma, cum right in, dinner is reddy. Here, deerest, sed Ma to Pa, you set next to yure frend & littel Bobbie can set oaver thare & I will set here.

Yure boy is a fine littel chap, sed Pa's frend. If I evver have a boy, I shall nevver, nevver send him to business college. It recked my future & it shall nevver reck the future of a son of mine. I am vary sorry, sed Ma. Ma looked kind of funny, she dident know what to think of Pa's frend. He was writing littel hooks & things all oaver the tabel cloth. There was sum dots & dashes & sum long lines. This wich I am riteing, sed Pa's frend, is the system of shorthand wich my college professor taught me. It was a fine sytem, he toald Ma, beekaus you can rite it jest as well on a tabel cloth as you can on good paper. The professor explaned to me that it was a fine system for detecktives, so thay cud set at the next tabel from a cuppel that had to be watched, & rite down all the converssshun in shorthand & then taik it hoam & use it for evidence.



But how cud thay take the tabel cloth from a nice cafey? sed Ma.

That wud be easy, that part of it, sed Pa's frend, a good detektive wuddent have any trubbel steeling a tabel cloth. So Pa's frend kep on marking all oaver the cloth, & it was a nice new linen one that Ma had jest bought.

It is vary entertaining, sed Ma, does yure nice pen work on oilcloth?

Why? sed Pa's frend.

Oh, nothing, sed Ma, only the next time one of my husband's college chums cums to dinner I am going to have oilcloth on the tabel & paper napkins.

A Guide to Sports

By WEX JONES

CHAMOIS HUNTING—The chamois is the great game animal of Switzerland. It bounds from crag to crag in the Alps, and such is its marvellous agility that it can bound to the top of the highest hotel bill. To pursue the chamois with success it is necessary to hire a springbok (this is an African antelope, not a drink, as its name seems to imply). Mounted upon the springbok, the hunter can bound from one crag to two crags, thus going the chamois one better. The quarry soon recognizes the futility of flight and will surrender itself to the hunter with a low moo of resignation. The creature is useful for polishing silver upon.

OSTRICH SNARING—Take a piece of granite and from it make an imitation hole in the ground. Place where ostrichs are plentiful and then scare the birds by singing, "Give My Regards to Mabel." One of them will try to hide its head in the imitation hole and will break its neck on the granite.

THROWING THE HARPOON—This is an exceedingly popular sport and one that can be enjoyed almost anywhere. At least one other player must be present and a mutual acquaintance must be not present. The two players then see who can hurl the harpoon fastest and hardest into the absent one. The game usually ends in a tie, and is replayed at the earliest convenient time.
